RIVERS ASKS TAX REFORM TO AID BUSINESS, OFFERS TWO REVENUE PLANS TO ASSEMBLY

F. D. R. Delays Georgia Trip on Doctors' Advice

4 MAJOR EVENTS HERE POSTPONED TILL LATER DATE

Executive To Leave Capital in Few Days for Florida Fishing Jaunt, After Which He Hopes To Come to 'Other Home.'

PRESIDENT ONLY SWITCHES PLANS

Gainesville Fete, Conference With 9 Dixie Governors, Celebrations at Warm Springs Put Off.

Georgia was both saddened and disappointed yesterday as President Roosevelt announced in Washington that, on advice of his physician and his dentist, he has been forced to postpone his annual Thanksgiving visit to the state.

Four major events in which the President was to have been a leading participant likewise were postponed.

The chief executive announced that he would leave Washington late this week or early next week on a brief fishing trip off the coast of Florida, after which he hopes to come to Gainesville.

The events delayed by the change in plans are:

The celebration marking the rebuilding of Gainesville following its disastrous tornado and fire of April, 1936.

The conference of the nine southeastern governors with President Roosevelt at Warm Springs. Dedication of the new Warm Springs Foundation chapel by Mr. Roosevelt.

The annual dinner of the President and his fellow patients at Warm Springs.

L. W. Roberts, secretary to the Democratic National Committee, said in Washington that the President merely had switched his program.

Switches Program.
"Instead of beginning it with the Georgia visit and ending with the Florida fishing trip, Mr. Roosevelt is starting with the fishing trip and will conclude his journey with a visit to Georgia," Roberts said.

At Gainesville, Edgar Dunlap, general chairman of the Gainesville celebration committee, announced that the entire program is being held in abeyance.

"We feel that the President has done so much toward the rebuilding of our city that we do not want to interrupt his journey," Dunlap said.

Cloudy and Warmer Is Forecast for Today

Partly cloudy skies and slightly warmer temperatures will bring relief today from Atlanta's first severe cold wave of the winter, Forecaster George W. Mindling predicted yesterday.

The cold blast sent the mercury skittering down to 18 degrees two days in succession.

Today's low reading is expected to be near 25 degrees, with temperatures well above the freezing mark anticipated during the day.

A warm bright sun yesterday caused the mercury to rise steadily from 18 degrees at 6 o'clock in the morning to 40 degrees late in the afternoon. No prediction of the maximum temperature was made for today.

The cold wave blanketed practically the entire south, reaching far into Florida. The mercury climbed to 32 degrees in Tampa while thermometers in Pensacola, Apalachicola and Jacksonville reached a low of 30 degrees.

INVADERS SMASH CHINESE KEYPOINT

Japanese Army, Navy Fly Note to Chiang Kai-shek Requesting Surrender.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Japanese army tonight reported another of the Chinese defense systems shielding Nanking was crumbling.

Chinese troops were said to be in flight from Wusih, keypoint of the north-south line between the Yangtze river and Lake Tai approximately half way between Shanghai and Nanking.

Japanese officers said their forces could reach Nanking's gates this week.

So rapid was the Japanese advance over the muddy flats north of Lake Tai airplanes were used to carry rations and munitions to infantry columns that had outrun their transport.

Japanese planes made a spectacular flight over Nanking to drop "a personal message" for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in which Japan's army and navy jointly urged him to end hostilities and surrender himself.

Whether it contained definite peace proposals was not disclosed.

Constitution's Editorial Policy And Tax Series Lauded by Rivers

The Constitution's editorial policy of urging co-operation of and by the legislature and its series of articles comparing the tax situation in Georgia with the tax situations of other southern states drew high praise from Governor Rivers in his message to the general assembly yesterday.

"You and I should both be heartened by the fine editorial in The Constitution this morning," the Governor said. "It shows us that the people of Georgia are looking to us for something constructive and that we can expect harmony and support from the people if we work in harmony and co-operation with ourselves."

"Working With Us."
"The Constitution editorial was a fine thing. It shows us that in this time of trial that great newspaper is working with us. It is widely different from the press

BARKLEY PREDICTS QUICK PASSAGE OF FARM MEASURE

Democratic Leader Arranges To Bring Up Debate on Bill Today; House Group Votes Compulsory Cotton Control.

FILIBUSTER HALTED ON ANTI-LYNCHING

Party Leadership Reported Planning Coup on Proposal To Regulate Wages, Working Hours.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The senate's blustery and temporarily successful filibuster against anti-lynching legislation halted tonight to permit action on the top item of the President's special session program—crop control.

Democratic Leader Barkley arranged to bring up the farm bill for debate tomorrow, and predicted it would be passed within a week.

The house agricultural committee decided on a compulsory cotton control program in the administration's new farm bill.

Under the leadership of Representative Fulmer, Democrat, South Carolina, the southern members gained approval of a penalty tax of 2 cents a pound on cotton produced by farmers who declined to abide by acreage allotments assigned by Secretary Wallace.

The committee earlier had expressed a preference for a voluntary program for cotton. The vote on the reversal was described by one member as "very close."

It was whispered about the legislative halls that the Democratic leadership in the house was planning a coup on the bill to regulate minimum wages and maximum working hours.

That measure is caught in a rules committee trap sprung by a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats. If 218 house members sign a pending petition, the committee will be forced to release the measure, and permit action on the floor. Nearly a week has passed since the petition was filed, and it still lacks about 70.

DEATH OF COFFIN IS LEFT UNSOLVED

Rifle 'Easy on Trigger,' Two Witnesses Testify at Sea Island Inquest.

SEA ISLAND, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The gunshot death of Howard Earle Coffin, automotive pioneer and textile executive, remained officially unsolved tonight after a coroner's jury failed to decide how the fatal bullet was fired.

The 64-year-old industrialist was found dead yesterday on the floor of a bathroom in the home of a relative. A single rifle bullet had pierced his head and his favorite deer rifle lay across his chest.

Coroner's Verdict.
After a three-hour session, the jury found:

"We, the jury, after hearing evidence and physical evidence, find that Howard Earle Coffin came to his death from a gunshot wound in the head, the cause of the discharge of the gun being unknown to the jury."

J. D. Compton, general manager of the Sea Island Company, of which Coffin was board chairman, found the body and was the chief witness at the inquest.

He told how he and Coffin discussed a deer hunting trip Saturday and the latter talked enthusiastically of the prospects for game.

Compton said he went Sunday morning to the home of Alfred W. Jones, where Coffin was staying. Coffin and Jones were cousins. Told by servants that Coffin had been served breakfast in his bedroom about an hour before, Compton went to the room.

Found Lying on Floor.
Compton said he entered, saw blood on the floor near the bathroom door. Then he found his

Two Cars Wrecked as Trolley Jams Them Together

Failure of the center auto's driver to "look before pulling from the curb" caused the scene above, police said. G. C. Gentry, 48, of 226 North avenue, N. E., driver of the auto, was admitted to Grady hospital with seven broken ribs and other undetermined injuries. Gentry's auto was parked last night in front of 135 Pine street, between Courtland and Piedmont avenues. As he pulled from the curb, a "Piedmont-Park Lane" street car struck his auto, jamming it against the unoccupied auto shown on the left, according to police. Both autos were damaged badly, Radio Policemen O. D. Timmie and W. J. Smith reported.

STORAGE BUILDING PLANS OUTLINED

Plant Costing $1,000,000 Would Be Located on Old Union Depot Site.

A seven-story cold and merchandise storage warehouse, to be erected at a total cost of nearly $1,000,000, may soon rise on the site of the old Union depot.

Outlines of the plans for the structure were announced yesterday by James Guy Robertson, of Kansas City, director of the bureau of marketing extension of the United States Cold Storage Corporation, who is in Atlanta in the interest of the project.

The present session of the legislature will be asked to pass upon a lease to the Dixie Building Terminal Company which will give the company the "green light" to go ahead with the project, Robertson said.

Seven years ago the company entered into a contract with the state to build an even larger building. However, the depression halted construction and $50,000 deposited to guarantee completion was ordered forfeited by the general assembly in its regular session. Governor Rivers yesterday asked a special appropriation bill to give this money to the State Radio Commission.

Description of Building.
Giving a description of the building and facilities, Robertson said the first unit will occupy the Central avenue frontage of the old Union depot site and utilize approximately 50 per cent of the total site area, the balance of the site to be reserved by option for a reasonable length of time to protect future expansion.

"The first unit will extend 158 feet on Central avenue and 182 feet on Wall street," Robertson said. "It will be seven stories high, constructed of brick and concrete."

German, 5 Others Held For French Spy Plot

MULHOUSE, France, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Special police of the French counter-espionage service disclosed tonight six persons have been arrested upon discovery of an important spy ring on the Alsatian frontier in the vicinity of Huningue.

Authorities said some of the prisoners confessed they delivered information concerning the strength of French troops near the Rhine fortifications to a "foreign spy service." The reports were delivered at Fribourg, Germany, for 500 marks (about $200) each.

One of those arrested was a German, who police stated was the leader. The prisoners were taken to the military prison at Besancon.

Governor Includes 79 Items In Call for Special Session

Revision of Georgia's taxation system was emphasized by Governor Rivers as the most important matter facing the special session of the legislature yesterday.

His proclamation calling the general assembly asked for action on the following matters:

1. Taxation for all state, county, municipal, school district or other public purposes or objects including all kinds of revenue that is, or may be, raised for public purposes by any manner of taxation whatever, including excise, license, franchise or privilege taxes, regulations or penalties; the classification of property and the selection and classification of subjects for taxation and the assessment, collection, allocation, distribution or administration of tax funds, and statutes of limitation with respect thereto; prescribing by definition the meaning of the terms "resident," "residence," and "situation" for tax purposes; the schedule of fees, compensation or expenses for tax receivers, tax collectors, tax commissioners and other tax collecting agencies.

Also all of the following objects:

2. A merit or civil service system for state employees, and for the operation thereof.

3. Establishing an economy commission, and providing for the operation thereof.

4. Authorizing the State Purchasing Department to require and provide for the keeping of records of licenses, tags, revenue stamps and other items furnished officials, departments, divisions, boards, commissions and bureaus for sale or distribution, representing money, and to require such items to be purchased exclusively through the State Purchasing Department.

5. Enabling acts for all constitutional amendments ratified at the

Motorman Takes Trolley On Wild Ride

'Lost' on Decatur Street in E. Fair Car, Operator Held as Drunk.

Streets seemed out of place to Motorman M. M. Cochran as he headed his street car to the barn last night.

In fact, he and his "E. Fair-Howell Mill Road" trolley were lost on Decatur street although the lights of Five Points were but a block away.

As the 34-year-old motorman headed down Decatur street, Radio Patrolmen W. E. Chatham and A. O. Hambrick sensed something wrong.

Pulling alongside, they stopped the motorman and asked where he was going. The policemen report he replied:

"To Decatur street, turn around and go to the barn."

The policemen looked at each other, then paced the trolley to the police station several blocks down the street. There they summoned Detective Lieutenant R. P. Burnette, who boarded the car.

Suddenly, the police reported, Cochran started his car, quickly threw the switch and turned into Butler street. The three policemen got the ride of their lives for about a block, they said.

The patrolmen arrested Cochran on charges of reckless driving of a street car and being intoxicated.

SPREAD BURDENS SO NONE SUFFER, GOVERNOR URGES

One Proposal Would Retain Ad Valorem Levy, and Alter Others; Second Is for Gross Receipts or a Sales Tax.

HOME EXEMPTION BILL IS SPEEDED

Measure To Increase Levy on Beer and Repeal Truck Maintenance Offered in House.

Other Legislative Stories and Pictures on Pages 7, 9, 10, 11, 12

With Governor Rivers sounding the keynote for a tax reformation which will not only supply needed revenues for the state's new and far-flung program but also serve as a stimulant to business, the general assembly of Georgia yesterday launched into what is considered the most important special session of the generation.

After detailing what his administration, through the co-operation of the legislature, had done and what it hoped to do, Governor Rivers told the assembly to take its choice between two broad proposals for tax reform. Either, he declared, would serve the purpose of the session.

Two Tax Proposals.
One plan would retain the state ad valorem, or property, tax; revise tax assessing and collecting methods; and corporation, chain store, inheritance and other taxes.

The other proposes abolishment of the state ad valorem tax and the substitution thereof of a gross income, a retail sales tax, or a gross receipts levy that would raise approximately $11,000,000.

Rivers left the decision squarely up to the legislature, although he said he had "always wanted" to abandon the state ad valorem tax and to make real estate "profitable" as an investment because it is the "basis of all the wealth there is in the world." He did not commit himself on a sales tax, which he several times sponsored during his service in the state house.

Which he did not advocate in his last campaign for the governorship.

The Governor's speech took up most of the first day of the session, but both houses completed organization work. Five bills were offered in the senate and 17 bills and five resolutions in the house.

Push Exemption.
The senate got away to a racehorse start by receiving one of the key bills sponsored by Rivers and getting it in shape for a favorable committee report tomorrow. This was a bill to provide a $2,000 tax exemption on owner-occupied homes. Another Rivers' bill, calling for $300 exemption on household and kitchen furniture, was introduced but will go to a subcommittee for further study.

Another house bill was one carrying out Rivers' suggestion for repeal of the much-criticized

In his message to the assembly, Governor Rivers later asked that the tags be distributed by the county tax collectors or commissioners in order to aid their revenue, which would be depreciated if the homestead and chattel exemption plans are approved.

At the same time the Governor urged that the law carry a provision that no tag be issued unless the applicant show a receipt for ad valorem taxes on the car, truck or bus.

HOUSING AIDE QUILTS

Says LaGuardia Forbade Talks With Straus.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(UP) Charles Abrams, counsel to the New York Housing Authority, tonight forwarded his resignation to Mayor Fiorella H. LaGuardia because the latter forbade New York housing officials to attend a conference here with Administrator Nathan Straus, of the United States Housing Authority.

"If a mayor can order an authority, or any of its representatives, to refrain from attending a conference which it believes vitally affects its interest, then a mayor may draw to himself full control over the authority and its functioning, destroying the independence, the freedom of action, the position 'above the battle' which is an essential part of the formula under which it was established," Abrams said in a letter to the New York Housing Authority.

FARMER FOUND DEAD.

TESTIMONY ENDS IN PASTOR'S TRIAL

Rev. Newton Unshaken by Cross-Examination.

PITTSFIELD, Ill., Nov. 22.—(AP) Testimony in the trial of the Rev. C. E. Newton, charged with the murder of Mrs. Dennis Kelly, ended late today as the state presented its final rebuttal witness. Closing arguments will begin tomorrow.

With the minister unshaken by cross-examination, the defense speedily wound up its case at mid-afternoon.

A hitchhiker, a bridge toll collector and 16 character witnesses, including three Baptist ministers followed the veteran preacher to the stand. He had reiterated his assertion he was held prisoner while other persons hammered Mrs. Kelly to death.

BEATEN SENSELESS, MAN, 52, IS ROBBED

Victim Lies 4 Hours on Vacant Lot After Losing Clothing, Cash.

Knocked unconscious by two blows over the head, Boyce L. Seay, 52, of Stone Mountain, was found last night after he had lain four hours in a vacant field across from Steiner clinic.

A woman patient told nurses she saw two white men go on the field with another man about 6 o'clock, and a few minutes later two men returned carrying an overcoat, shoes and apparently counting money.

Four hours later the information reached Hospital Patrolman Eddie Hughes, who went over and found the man still unconscious. Seay was admitted to Grady hospital.

The injured man told police when he came to that he had been hit by two white men who robbed him of an overcoat, shoes and $2.30 cash.

BEN BLUE'S WIFE SUES.

PUBLISHERS SETTLE DUKE'S LIBEL SUIT

'Substantial Sum' To Be Paid for King; Court Defends Edward's Name.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Lord Chief Justice Hewart briskly defended the good name of the Duke of Windsor today in approving a private settlement of the former King's libel suit against the author and publishers of "Coronation Commentary."

The high British official asserted the case involved "foul, cruel libel" of the Duke which a jury might have thought deserved a "thoroughly efficient horse whipping."

Sir William Jowitt, appearing in court for Windsor, announced William Heinemann, Ltd., publishers, and Geoffrey Dennis, author, would pay a "substantial sum" for damages and costs. The defendants also tendered an apology and admitted statements in the book dealing with the Duke's reign as King Edward VIII, were unjustified.

Sir William said the "substantial sum" would be given by Edward to charities.

("Coronation Commentary") dealt with Edward's reign and abdication almost on the eve of his coronation and commented on what it characterized as "muddling, fuddling and meddling" during his reign.)

'DEVIL'S DISCIPLE' OPENS RUN HERE

George Bernard Shaw's Play at Atlanta Theater.

Before a well-filled house, George Bernard Shaw's comedy, "The Devil's Disciple," opened at the Atlanta theater last night for a six-night run.

Poking fun at King George III and the British "redcoats," Shaw's comedy deals with the plight of the New England Dudgeon family in the days of the revolution.

Shaw's biting sarcasm and sharp wit kept the audience in gales of laughter.

The play opens just after the head of the Dudgeon family, Peter Dudgeon, has been hung by the King's men as an "example" to the "rebels."

A reading of the will reveals that his worldly estate has been left to the family blacksheep and the "devil's disciple," Richard Dudgeon, male lead, played by Stanton Huff, a newcomer to the Atlanta Federal Theater from New York.

The complications which subsequently arise keep the audience constantly laughing and at the final curtain Richard, the blacksheep, is found going to the gallows in the cloak of a minister.

The convincing support of the entire cast produces excellent comedy which reaches its height

BETTER RELATIONS WITH MANY NATIONS CLAIMED BY FRANCO

Rebels Mark Time Awaiting Signal for General Offensive.

HENDAYE, Franco - Spanish Frontier, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco today announced progress toward better relations of his insurgent regime with world powers while his armies marked time awaiting the signal for their long-promised general offensive.

The diplomatic cabinet at Salamanca said the Spanish charge d'affaires at Tokyo had reached "an absolute accord" whereby Emperor Hirohito soon would sign an act recognizing the insurgent government on the basis of treaties existing between Japan and Spain before the civil war began.

Commerce Increasing.
Another Salamanca statement said commerce between Britain and insurgent Spain was increasing daily as a result of the recent agreement to exchange commercial agents. Numerous British ships, the statement said, have been calling at Bilbao and other recently captured Bay of Biscay ports and taking on cargoes of minerals.

(In London an insurgent spokesman said the Franco government had been formally recognized by Italy, Germany, the Vatican, Nicaragua and Guatemala; that Portugal and Japan already maintained relations which the insurgents interpreted as recognition; that the positions of Austria, Hungary and Yugoslavia were uncertain.

"An Accepted Fact."
(However, in Budapest a foreign office spokesman said Hungarian recognition of the Franco regime had been "an accepted fact" since a few months after the start of the Spanish civil war.) Comparative calm persisted on the military fronts in Spain. Insurgent air forces were reported to have inflicted heavy punishment on several Aragon towns after having been grounded for days by bad weather. Government artillery hammered at the lines from which the insurgent drive was expected to be launched soon. Barcelona dispatches said 32 persons were killed and 80 wounded Sunday when insurgent bombers raided Alicante, government port on the southeastern coast.

RUSSIA THREATENS WAR ON JAPANESE

Leave Mongolia Alone, Red Army Paper Warns
Nipponese.

MOSCOW, Nov. 23.—(Tuesday.) (UP)—The Red Star, organ of the Soviet army, warned Japan today if she invades Mongolia, the Soviet Union will go to war.

The newspaper reiterated the warning to Japan that Joseph Stalin gave when interviewed two years ago by Roy W. Howard. "The great plains represent considerable difficulty for aggression by Japan," it said. "Nevertheless, if Japan stretches her forces across the border of the Mongolian republic, the people of the Soviet Union and the Mongolian republic have signed a treaty of friendship, and in case of necessity, the people of the Soviet Union will deal a crushing blow and answer Japan's aggression."

BABA GETS LOCK— WEDLOCK ON BOB

Princess and Wrestler Married 'Suddenly.'

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Princess Baba, fluffy-haired 21-year-old daughter of the Rajah and Ranees of Sarawak, white rulers of a million Borneo head hunters and Malays, tonight caught the catch-as-catch-can wrestling champion of Europe, handsome Bob Gregory, in a wedlock.

The marriage, which took place "suddenly and surprisingly," according to the bride's friends, originally was set for November 20, but Princess Baba (Valerie to her mother) had not received permission from her wealthy and powerful father, Sir Charles Vyner Brooke, the only living white rajah.

The Ranees were understood to have given her consent. "I'll take care of father," Princess Baba announced confidently.

Abit Nix, prominent Athens attorney, will speak at the fourth annual home-coming banquet of the University System of Georgia Evening School, to be held at 7 o'clock tomorrow night at the Shrine Mosque.

More than 800 persons are expected to attend. Fred W. Ajax, instructor of English at Georgia Tech and the Evening School, will be toastmaster. The freshman with the highest scholastic rating will be awarded a scholarship.

The banquet is sponsored by the student council. A dance will follow.

OFFICIALS DISCUSS CITY'S INTANGIBLES

Preservation of Atlanta's
Financial Status on Taxes Sought.

Preservation of Atlanta's financial equilibrium in the projected reclassification of intangible properties will be sought through a series of conferences, it was decided last night at a conference between city administration leaders and members of the Fulton delegation in the Georgia legislature.

Mayor Hartsfield will seek an audience with Governor Rivers today with a view of securing copies of the bill before it is offered to the assembly.

The advantage of this procedure, it was pointed out, is to iron out any differences which may exist over provisions of the act before it reaches the floors of the assembly. Under the plan, it is proposed to draft a "bill" fair to the taxpayer, fair to the state and fair to cities and counties," Hartsfield explained.

Will Lose $100,000.
"Atlanta will lose $100,000 a year through tax exemptions of home furnishings," Hartsfield told those assembled. "It will cost at least $75,000 a year more to operate the new sewage disposal plants in the future because of the completion of the metropolitan sewer district program. In addition, if we are forced to pay fireman's pensions under an old contract, the city will be forced to expend another $30,000 a year."

"Emergency improvements to Atlanta's airport will cost about $50,000. These are new lengthened runways and a modernized system of signals from the ground to incoming planes."

"Atlanta actually needs more money rather than losing it. If the state insists on placing a 5 per cent limitation on intangibles as has been suggested and giving the city 40 per cent of what it collects from Atlanta, the city will lose another $370,000 on stocks and bonds alone."

Budget Threatened.
"We cannot make a budget under the state laws if we lose this revenue. Atlanta will be paralyzed. It will be impossible to operate necessary departments and the loss will be reflected in every department of the municipality."

Senator G. Everett Millican and Representatives Helen Douglas Mankin and Cicero Kendrick, representatives attending the conference, pledged their co-operation.

Other conferences will be held later after the Hartsfield-Rivers conference.

Others at Meeting.
Among others attending the meeting were:

City Attorney Jack C. Savage, and his assistant, Bond Almand; Joe C. Little, Leo Suderth and J. Sid Tiller, tax assessors; Comptroller B. Graham West, Councilman Cecil Hester and Jack Gray, superintendent of the Atlanta airport.

The delegation decided against any movement at this time looking towards diversion of gasoline taxes collected at Candler field for capital improvements there. They warned that "too many ironies might be placed in the fire, and city heads agreed."

It was pointed out that the state collects about $36,000 a year from this source, that planes do not use the highways, but that Atlanta expends $18,000 a year in operating costs at the field. The mayor asserted that 3 cents a gallon of the gasoline tax would pay for the improvements contemplated at the field, but decided against pressing the issue.

Held in Arms Plot.
MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Willard Campbell, 37, former night club and real estate operator here, was arrested today on a federal indictment charging conspiracy to smuggle arms and ammunition into Honduras.

Little 5-Points Civic Association Organized to Upbuild Community

John Powell Elected President as More Than 75 Business, Civic Leaders Meet To Launch Organization;
I. Gloer Hailey First Charter Member.

More than 75 business and civic leaders of Little Five Points met last night at the Joseph C. Greenfield Masonic temple on Moreland avenue and organized the Little Five Points Civic Association for commercial, industrial and civic improvement in the community. John Powell was elected president of the new organization.

I. Gloer Hailey, mayor pro tem, and alderman from the sixth ward, became the first charter member of the association. He was followed by 52 others who indicated their desire to become "first members" by paying their initial dues.

Other officers of the association are John Findley, vice president; Mrs. J. C. Humphries, secretary, and Dr. D. V. Pitts, treasurer.

Membership in the organization is to be composed of both men and women "of good standing who are interested in the commercial, industrial and civic improvement of this section of Atlanta." Membership dues were fixed at $3 per year.

George Wilson, president of the West End Businessmen's Association, attended the meeting and explained the set-up of the West End organization. He outlined the numerous projects which have been sponsored by the association and pointed to its extensive benefits to the community.

Emphasizing the importance of keeping the association non-political, Wilson said that the West End organization does not seek to elect any one candidate for any office. "It is for the good of the community rather than for one individual that we work," he declared.

Purpose Outlined.
The purpose of the Little Five Points Association, as outlined in the constitution which was adopted last night, is to promote "the upbuilding of the section in population, commerce, and finance; in civic and social improvement; in dissemination of information for the benefit of its members, and good fellowship among its members."

The by-laws provide for 11 committees. They include improvements, electric railways, lights and telephone, sanitary and health, legislative, police and fire, school, membership, publicity, finance and entertainment.

Next meeting of the association will be held Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at the Bass Junior High school. At that time a governing body of 10 directors will be elected and the various committees appointed.

The group decided last night that the opportunity to become charter members of the association would extend until the first meeting in January.

An automatic switch cut the power immediately, causing a fellow employee, H. F. Booth, to investigate. Booth found the badly burned body lying on the floor.

Power company officials said Travis had cut off the switch of the transformer he was cleaning, but apparently had come in contact with a live conductor near by.

The Walton street substation provides electric current for several downtown buildings and service was suspended about half an hour by the accident.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Minnie O. Travis, of Woodbury, Tenn. Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Jack Travis, 32, of 107 Pine street, was killed instantly yesterday when he touched a 19,000-volt power line while cleaning a transformer at the Walton street substation of the Georgia Power Company.

TRUCKERS TO SEEK INCREASED RATES

Intervention in Rail Case To Be Asked.

Efforts to obtain higher freight rates by co-operation with a nine-man committee of the American Trucking Association were pledged yesterday by members of the general rates committee of the Southern Motor Carriers' Rate Conference in a meeting here yesterday. A petition will be taken by the trucking association committee before the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to intervene in the 15 per cent rail rate increase case to be heard in Washington November 29.

Questionnaires have also been distributed among all motor carriers in the southern conference in an attempt to determine the amount freight rates should be increased. Edgar Watkins Jr., general counsel for the conference, spoke to the general rates committee yesterday.

Former Legislator Dies

MacGREGOR PARTY HEMMED BY SNOW

Stormy Weather Continues at Arctic Camp.

By CLIFFORD P. MACGREGOR. (Copyright, 1937, for The Constitution and North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.) REINDEER POINT, Greenland, Nov. 22.—Stormy weather continues at the MacGregor arctic expedition camp. Snow continues to fall, with 40 inches of snow on the ground. The temperature remains very mild, and is now 14 above zero.

Strong winds continue to blow down from the Greenland ice cap, lifting the snow into the air and reducing the visibility to zero. We have had only two clear days so far this month. Open water remains in Smith sound and Kane basin.

J. C. EDWARDS.

J. C. EDWARDS RITES TO BE HELD TODAY

Former State Legislator, Clarksville Attorney, Dies in Gainesville.

Funeral services for J. C. Edwards, 82, former Georgia legislator and retired Clarksville attorney, who died Sunday in a Gainesville hospital, will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning from the Clarksville Baptist church. Burial will be in Wynn family cemetery.

Before retiring from his law practice last September, Mr. Edwards had been active in northeast Georgia's politics. He was mayor of Clarksville for several successive terms, his first political job, and later was elected to the state legislature in 1905, to serve four years.

Mr. Edwards had served as news correspondent for The Constitution in Clarksville and Habersham county more than 30 years, and had played a major role in reporting the news and progress of northeast Georgia.

Following several years of law practice in a firm with his two sons, Gus C. and H. E. Edwards, who survive him, Mr. Edwards was elected to the Georgia senate from the thirty-first district in 1927. He was born in Jackson county, Georgia, and married Miss Emma Eugenia Wynn, of a pioneer Banks county family.

COUNTIES' JOBLESS TO BE TABULATED

Postmaster Praises T. Elton Drake, Committee Chairman, and Atlanta Papers

Tabulation of Georgia's unemployed or partially unemployed by counties will begin today, following completion of the jobless census Saturday at midnight. Postmaster, Lon F. Livingston announced yesterday.

Reports from the second, third and fourth-class offices over the state will start pouring into the Atlanta office today, and a final compilation according to counties is necessary before the results are sent to Washington Saturday, Livingston said.

The postmaster praised T. Elton Drake, chairman of Mayor Hartsfield's census committee, and the Atlanta newspapers for their part in "making the census run so smoothly."

GEORGIANS TO PAY SINGLETON HONOR

6 Will Attend Inauguration as College Head.

Six Georgians will attend the inauguration of Dr. Gordon G. Singleton as president of Mary Hardin-Baylor College in Belton, Texas, November 24. Dr. Singleton formerly was head of the school of education, Mercer University, Macon.

The six Georgians include Dr. Spright Dowell, president of Mercer; Mrs. Dice R. Anderson, wife of the president of Wesleyan College, who will represent Wesleyan; Dr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Boone, of Macon; and Mrs. Reginald Trice, Macon, who will represent the Georgia State College for Women.

GARNETT WILSON, TRAIN AGENT, DIES

Funeral Services Will Be Conducted This Morning.

Garnett Wilson, train agent for the Louisville & Nashville railroad here, died Sunday night at his home, 1677 Cornell road, N. E. Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning at the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes, with Dr. W. A. Shelton officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Mr. Wilson had lived in Atlanta for the past 20 years and was a member of the Grace Methodist church. He was born in Dalton, Ga. Surviving are four sisters, Misses Emma, Carrie and Geneva Wilson, all of Atlanta, and Mrs. N. B. Estes, of Jacksonville, Fla.; and three brothers, J. C. and H. Q. Wilson, of Dalton, and W. F. Wilson, of Atlanta.

BOLIVIAN CABINET QUIT

AFTER VOTE IS DECREED

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Bolivian cabinet resigned tonight after the government of President German Busch decreed elections March 13 to choose a constituent assembly.

Political circles said the cabinet resigned to give Busch a free hand in choosing collaborators for the elections.

WOMAN DIES IN CRASH OF SUBURBAN TRAINS

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—(AP)—One woman was killed and several persons injured tonight in a rear-end collision between two south-bound Illinois Central electric suburban trains. The collision occurred on the southeast side.

The woman's name was not learned immediately.

WILLIAMS LEAVES EDGEWOOD AVENUE

Well-Known Bicycle Man Tells What Happened To Him.

"For the past 27 years I have been in the bicycle business on Edgewood Avenue," stated Harry Williams when interviewed yesterday. Continuing, Mr. Williams said, "During all of this time I have tried to give our customers my personal attention. However, at times this has been rather difficult due to the fact that until recently I have been a chronic sufferer from coughs and colds."

"About a month ago I saw in the paper where a friend of mine had used Menthon-Mulsion and it had relieved him from a condition very much like mine. I sent down to the drug store and got a bottle of it for 75c, and started taking it right away. I found it to be not only a wonderful treatment for coughs, but an excellent preventive. As soon as my throat begins to tighten up and my head begins to get stopped up I immediately take a few doses of Menthon-Mulsion, and relief is almost instantaneous."

"I have moved my bicycle shop to 691 North Boulevard, and if any of my friends want to come to see me or telephone me I will be glad to tell them about my experience with Menthon-Mulsion."—(adv.)

KENNEDY BOOMED AS POWER 'LIAISON' TO END 5-YEAR RIFT

Marine Chief, a Financier, Held Logical Man To Restore Harmony.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Insiders talked today of the possibility that Joseph P. Kennedy might eventually be assigned the task of negotiating peace between the Roosevelt administration and the power industry.

While there was no indication that President Roosevelt has made up his mind to such a step, some officials expressed the belief that the logic of events is tending toward it.

The administration is casting about for means to stimulate business, while the utility industry virtually offers to go ahead with a $3,500,000,000 construction program if what it terms governmental "restrictions" are lifted.

Financier Himself.
Observers pointed out that Mr. Roosevelt decided to pick a "liaison" man to smooth out difficulties and try to get the building program going, Kennedy might be the choice because of his close contacts with the administration and business. A New York and Boston financier, who made large sums in the stock market, he is chairman of the Maritime Commission, but his advice and in-

No Pink for F. D. R. - - - Wife Picks Ties

NORRIS, Tenn., Nov. 22.—(AP)—One of President Roosevelt's Christmas gifts from his wife will be a batch of ties knitted by east Tennessee mountain women.

Mrs. Roosevelt bought several of the ties today while rummaging through the southern highlands mountain craft shop here. She was careful, however, to select conservative colors.

"I bought him several ties with pink in them last year," she explained. "He didn't like them very well, I'm afraid. So I'm guarding against pink this year."

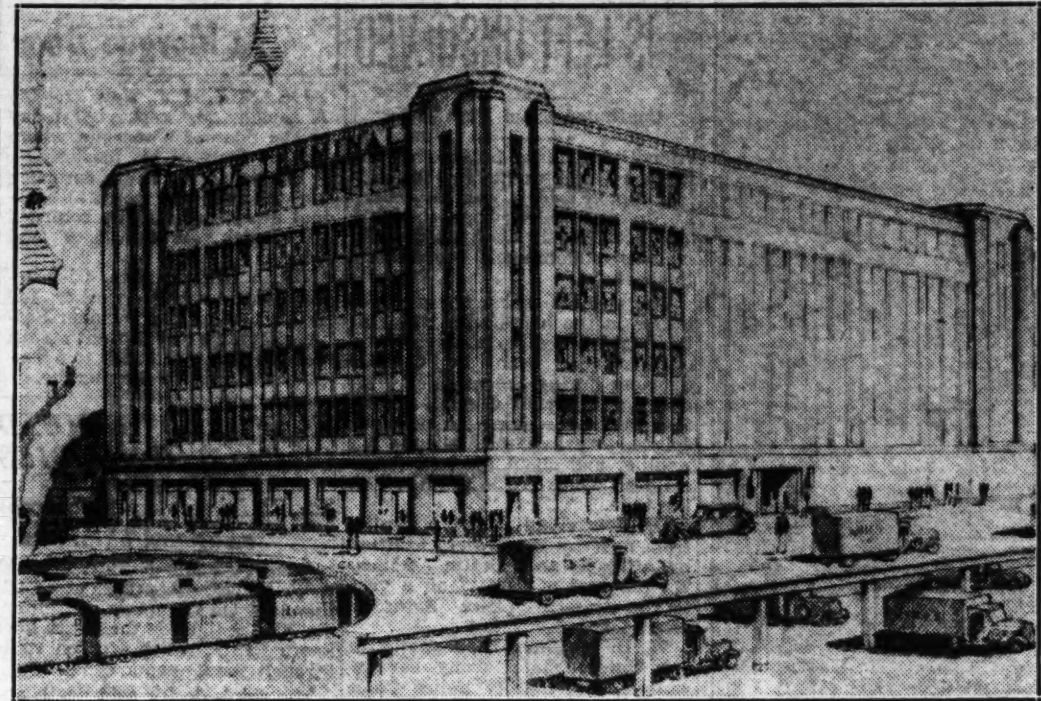

fluence go far beyond the realm of marine affairs.

His first assignment with the administration was that of chairman of the Securities Commission, which he headed for the first 15 months of its existence.

Five Years of Friction.
Kennedy's selection probably would mean an immediate effort to end the five-year friction with private power. He was represented as feeling that the problem should be attacked directly and not hedged about with time-consuming studies and lengthy reports.

Before taking any action, however, Mr. Roosevelt is canvassing the situation with power executives. Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth and Southern, is scheduled to see him tomorrow.

Plans Are Outlined for $1,000,000 Storage Plant

Plans were announced yesterday for construction of a seven-story cold and merchandise storage warehouse on Central avenue, at Wall street, on the site of the old Union depot. The building will cost nearly $1,000,000. Work on the project is pending lease negotiations with the state, according to James Guy Robertson, of Kansas City, who is here in the interest of the project.

BIG COLD STORAGE BUILDING PLANNED

crete, sprinkled, and will be of the latest design and of pleasing appearance.

"The building will contain 194,760 square feet of floor space, divided approximately as follows: Cold storage, 97,280 square feet; loft space, 42,900 square feet; Central avenue stores, 8,580 square feet; corridors, 6,480 square feet; elevators and stairs, 6,220 square feet; platform, tracks, etc., 28,700 square feet.

"The present investment in the foundations which are to be used for the first unit is $104,642. Cost of $854,642.

"The estimated cost to complete the building, allowing reasonable contingencies, is approximately $750,000, making a total cost of the completed project, not including previous expenditures not properly allocated to the first unit, $854,642.

"The portion of the site to be occupied by the first unit is that part most suitable for an intensive warehousing operation, and is directly adjacent to the produce district of Atlanta and the largest wholesalers.

"The structure, as outlined by sketches, is designed to meet the requirements of the service provided by the project. The design of the superstructure is the result of many years experience in warehouse and cold storage planning, and is excellently suited to operation of the building.

"Ample elevator service is provided, including a passenger elevator to serve the loft space. The cold storage section is divided into rooms that previous operations have proven to be the most efficient in size and shape.

Ample Floor Load.
"The 250-pound floor load provided for is ample for the warehouse operations. The cold storage insulation is of a thickness indicated by previous experience, and the method of application of the insulation is such as to eliminate heat leakage and deterioration of the insulating material. The refrigerating coils are sufficient to produce the temperatures desired and installed in a manner which has proven satisfactory.

"Loft space is divided into convenient sections, each well lighted and convenient to elevator service. "It is estimated that the construction of this building will give employment amounting to approximately 160,000 man hours of unskilled labor and 200,000 man hours of skilled labor, or a total of 360,000 man hours of employment.

"It is also estimated that the construction of the building will require the following quantities of heavy building material: cement, 16,000 barrels; lumber, 400,000 board feet; reinforcing steel, 800 tons; gravel, 12,000 tons; brick, 6,400 tons; common brick, 448,000; face brick, 320,000; and 130,000 lineal feet of refrigerating piping.

Other Materials.
"In addition there will be, of course, large quantities of electrical wiring, heating and sanitary piping, hardware and other miscellaneous building material.

"It is not possible to estimate the useful life of this type of building. It consists primarily of concrete floors supported by concrete and steel columns and brick curtain walls, and is readily adaptable to any usage.

"Research at the present time does not indicate any possible substitution for refrigerated space for the proper preservation of perishable foodstuffs. There have been only minor changes in the art during the past 30 years, and as the building is so far as known indestructible there is every reason to believe that it will be useful for a period many years beyond the expiration of the state lease."

Pointing out advantages accruing to the state from the proposed lease, Robertson said: "The Western & Atlantic railroad, now leased to the Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis railway, is owned by the state of Georgia.

Advantage to State.
"It is to the state's advantage to secure as many industries and as much traffic as it can to enhance the value of its railroad. The measure of the rental which the state may receive for its railroad when re-leased in 1969 will be the traffic originating on or carried over its rails. It is well known that an industry such as on the editorial page will prove very helpful throughout the session."

Speaker Harris was equally warm in his praise. He called attention to the fact that he personally had purchased 250 copies of yesterday's issue and laid one on the desk of each member of the house.

"The Constitution editorial is great," the presiding officer of the house said. "And as for tax reform the members need nothing more than to read the concluding article of the tax series. If they will only read it they will find no other course open to them."

RELIC HERE LINKED TO VIRGINIA DARE

of making an immediate denial or affirmation of the authenticity of the inscription.

Publicity Unwise.
"Members of the Emory faculty are engaged in deciphering the inscription, but until certain questions have been cleared up it would obviously be unwise for their translation to be made public.

"Emory University has agreed to make a thorough investigation into the relic, although it may be months before definite conclusions can be reached."

Dr. Pearce recently went to North Carolina to trace the origin of the stone and to make other investigations.

Emory officials said they were interested in making a survey, possibly within the next 12 months, of the region from which the lost colony, which settled on the coast during the reign of the English Queen Elizabeth, disappeared more than 300 years ago.

The Raleigh paper quoted Dr. Pearce as telling friends he had "found a gravestone which he believed to be that of Virginia Dare."

Reputed Inscription.
The stone, the professor was quoted as having told friends, showed that "Virginia Dare, born in 1587, died in 1591, at the age of four." Also, the paper said, Dr. Pearce had been quoted as saying the marker "carried a total of 12 lines of inscription, most of which was illegible, due to deterioration during the three and half centuries since its supposed erection."

Dr. Pearce was quoted further as saying he believed the words carried a message to Governor John White, telling him of the destination of the lost colony.

QUICK VOTE SEEN ON FARM MEASURE

of the signatures necessary for its success.

So, it was reported, Democratic Leader Rayburn, of Texas, intended to march to the rostrum tomorrow, sign the petition and then make a speech. The leadership was hopeful that more than enough signatures then would be obtained quickly.

Delayed Procedure.
The leaders have had this procedure in mind for some time, but delayed to permit the rules committee to meet and consider again whether its grip on the bill should be relaxed voluntarily. The committee is scheduled to meet tomorrow morning.

The southern filibuster against the anti-lynching legislation was continued today by Senators Overton, Democrat, Louisiana, and Andrews, Democrat, Florida, with the assistance of some pungent interpolations from Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas.

Off the floor Connally gave reporters this definition of a filibuster:

"When a northern senator speaks on a bill, that's statesmanship, but when a southern senator speaks on a bill, that's a filibuster."

Vote Prevented.
By continuous oratory the southerners have prevented a vote on a motion to take up the anti-lynching bill, but their real test has still to come. Under a special order of the senate, the issue will come up again after the farm measure has been voted upon, and the southerners will have to talk many more hours if a vote is to be avoided then.

NEUTRALITY LAW INVOCATION SOUGHT

Strong Protest Hinted If Japanese Seize Control of Shanghai.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(UP)—The senate neutrality bloc consolidated its forces tonight in a drive to force President Roosevelt to invoke the neutrality act against China and Japan concurrently with reports that the state department would protest vigorously if Japan seizes control of Shanghai.

The bloc, composed chiefly of Senators Gerald P. Nye, Republican, North Dakota; Arthur H. Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan; Homer T. Bone, Democrat, Washington, and Bennett C. Clark, Democrat, Missouri, hopes to arouse enough senate sentiment to obtain passage of a resolution calling upon the President to declare that China and Japan are at war. This, they believe, would make it mandatory that the chief executive invoke the neutrality law.

The State Department kept a sharp watch meantime on developments at Shanghai. Official comment was withheld but it was indicated privately that if the Japanese high command carries out its threat to seize Chinese government customs and functions in the rich port city possibly infringing on rights in the International Settlement—Japan may be called to account.

BAHAMAS OUTLAWS HANGED AT NASSAU

Pair, Convicted of Murder, Blamed in Riots.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The outlaws of Great Inagua, George and Willis Duvalier, were hanged today in Bahamas gaol and beyond the walls a great cry went up as the black flag of death was hoisted over the prison.

Graves in police's field received within two hours the bodies of the brothers executed for the slaying of John Munroe, a native shot in rioting last August that centered about the salt works at Great Inagua owned by the Erickson family of Swampscott, Mass. Riots for which the Duvaliers were blamed caused the British commissioner, two of the Erickson brothers and others to put out to sea in a bulky motorboat. Reaching Cuba, they were jailed as suspected revolutionaries and held for several days.

Constance Worth Asks Divorce From Brent

Constance Worth, of the films, yesterday in Los Angeles filed suit for divorce against George Brent, movie actor. She charged extreme cruelty, asserting the actor left home frequently after their marriage in Toluca, Mexico, last May, without explanation. The complaint made no reference to Brent's unsuccessful suit to have the marriage annulled on grounds that it was invalid because certain requirements of the Mexican law were not met. The above photo of the couple was made last May when they were in Avalon, Cal., just previous to their marriage.

GIANT U. S. CLIPPER SHIP FOR RUSSIA LAUNCHED

BALTIMORE, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The giant clipper built by Glenn L. Martin for Soviet Russia was launched today, sliding down a construction ramp and splashing into the waters of Dark Head creek before the eyes of hundreds of spectators.

Martin read a brief speech, the chill wind whipping the pages in his hands, and then engineers started the four 1,000-horsepower motors, capable of cruising at 140 to 170 miles an hour more than 4,500 miles.

PRESIDENT DELAYS HIS TRIP TO GEORGIA

to have the celebration without him," Chairman Dunlap said. "We have informed Mr. Roosevelt that we are all concerned over his physical condition and will gladly await the time he can come to Georgia."

It was pointed out at Gainesville that the postponement likely will permit participation in the ceremony by Congressman B. Frank Whelchel, of Gainesville, and Albert Hardy Sr., editor of the Gainesville News, both of whom are recovering from injuries received in a motor car accident.

Had the celebration been held this week it is doubtful that either Congressman Whelchel or the editor would have been able to participate.

Rivers Notified. Governor Rivers was notified by telephone from Washington of the change in the President's plans. He expressed his deep regret over the necessity for the change.

The Governor likewise formally notified his fellow chief executives of the southeast.

"I know the other Governors are as deeply disappointed as I am that we will all be glad to await the convenience of the President," Governor Rivers said. "The people of Georgia are deeply interested in his physical condition. We know that this is a nerve-racking job and we do not want to do anything that will retard his recovery."

At Warm Springs the disappointment likewise was felt keenly.

The President, missing at the festival last year, was scheduled to carve the Thanksgiving turkey at the annual dinner for the patients. The dinner and dedication will be held when the President visits the resort.

Doctors Advise Change. The change in the President's plans was made on advice of Dr. Ross T. McIntire, White House physician, and Lieutenant Commander Arthur Yandell, a navy dentist, who last week extracted an infected tooth that has been giving the chief executive trouble for several days. Because the President has not fully regained his strength since the extraction, which was preceded by a light temperature and intestinal disorder, it was decided to keep him in Washington longer than the Thanksgiving trip permitted.

From all accounts, the President's tooth abscess was a particularly bad one and drainage is being continued, along with treatment of the gums. Otherwise his physical condition is represented as being good. His temperature is normal and all trace of the earlier stomach trouble has now disappeared.

Mr. Roosevelt was well enough yesterday, in fact, to conduct a certain amount of business in his study, where he received a number of congressional leaders and others for conferences. The same routine will be continued today, it was said.

Worker Is Suspended For Not Saluting Flag

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 22.—(AP)—City Commissioner P. M. Greer said today John E. Greer, an employee at the municipal garage, had been given a 30-day suspension for refusal to salute the flag.

The city and county commissions recently adopted resolutions directing all employees to sign pledges of allegiance to the flag and the government of the United States.

Greer's ten-year-old son, Julian, was suspended from a public school here recently for refusing to salute the flag.

Greer and his son said they declined to salute for religious reasons.

friend lying on the bathroom floor, dead, a bullet wound in the head. Coffin said it was his theory Coffin was killed when the rifle was accidentally discharged while he was examining it preparatory to the hunt.

The witness said a nurse and a butler in the home both told him they had heard no shot and no outsiders had been in Coffin's quarters during the morning. The butler who served Coffin's breakfast said he seemed in excellent spirits, and inquired about the weather and about the four Jones children who were in the house at the time.

Dr. John Paul Jones, a dentist from near-by Brunswick, testified by affidavit that Coffin seemed "in the best of spirits" on a visit to the dentist's office Saturday afternoon.

W. B. Merston Jr., a major in the United States army cavalry reserve, and County Police Chief L. O. Godwin both testified in regard to the death weapon, a 15-year-old rifle of heavy caliber.

"Easy on the Trigger." Merston said "the trigger squeeze was very light and in my opinion it was possible a jar would have released the firing pin." Godwin agreed the rifle was "easy on the trigger."

The dead man's bride of five months, the former Miss Gladys Baker, a New York newspaperwoman, was in New York at the time of the tragedy. Friends arranged to meet her train at Nahunta, Ga., tonight and accompany her home.

Coffin, a native of Ohio, entered the automobile field in 1900. Ten years later he helped found the Hudson Motor Company, and until 1930 was a guiding figure of this corporation in its capacity as vice president and consulting engineer. Shortly after withdrawal from the automobile field, he became board chairman for South-eastern Cottons, Inc., a post he held at his death.

Coffin also gained note for his wartime work with the advisory committee of the Council for National Defense and in postwar years was a friend of Presidents Hoover and Coolidge.

NEW ORLEANS LIFTS BAN ON TOBACCO ROAD

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 22.—(UP)—"Tobacco Road" was permitted to begin its scheduled two weeks showing tonight after city authorities withdrew their ban on recommendation of priests and police previewers.

Mayor Robert S. Maestri announced that certain passages of the play—which was termed "obscene and immoral" in federal court when city attorneys successfully sought an injunction sought by producers—were deleted.

DOG KEEPS VIGIL AT MORGUE DOOR

ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 22.—(AP)—A shaggy dog kept vigil today at the door of a morgue where lay the body of his master.

Time and again a coroner's aide shooed the mournful animal away, but still he returned to scratch on the door and whine.

When Thomas Rea, 65-year-old homeless WPA worker, fell to his death from a ladder Saturday, police had to fight off his dog to remove the body to a hospital and then to the morgue.

STANDARD OIL HEAD OF CALIFORNIA DIES

K. R. Kingsbury Succumbs on Board Ship.

COLON, Panama, Nov. 22.—(AP)—K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California, died tonight on the Grace liner Santa Paula, which was en route through the Panama canal.

The ship's doctor said death apparently was due to a heart attack. Kingsbury was a native of Columbus, Ohio. He was 61 years old.

When the liner arrived at Colon arrangements were made to transport the body by plane to his home in San Francisco for burial.

Man Ticks for 19 Years, Doctors To Test Alarm

SHAWNEE, Okla., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Charles Hester, Shawnee's human alarm clock, may soon learn what has caused the audible ticking in his head for the past 19 years.

Mrs. Jewell Adams, Red Cross executive, said today the Veterans' Bureau had arranged for Hester to enter a Chicago hospital for diagnosis.

Hester's head has ticked like a clock since a shell exploded at his feet in the World War. The ticking can be heard three feet away.

Gannett, Beaverbrook Differ Over Propaganda.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Prominent publishers of two nations, Frank E. Gannett, of the United States, and Lord Beaverbrook, of Great Britain, disagreed today over governmental control of newspapers for propaganda in wartime.

Beaverbrook, in his discussion with the New York publisher across a luncheon table, stood firmly behind use of the press "to assist the national defense in a crisis, where the country is in peril."

Gannett deplored propaganda as "having deceived the American public and influenced this country into participation in the World War."

The four were Captain William M. Rose and Chief Radio Operator E. L. Tilton, of the United Fruit Company steamship Sixaola, and Clarence and Neddie Baptiste. The Baptistes testified as employees of Israel Slobodsky, one of five men charged in the alleged plot to violate the neutrality act, which requires registration of all persons exporting arms.

BEER TAX INCREASE TO $4.50 A BARREL PROPOSED IN HOUSE

Rivers Urges Adoption, Allocation of Added Revenue to Schools.

An administration-sponsored bill to increase the state tax on beer from $2.50 a barrel to $4.50 a barrel was introduced in the house of representatives yesterday by Speaker Harris, Representative Suttou, of Wilkes county, the floor leader, and Representative Coleman of Lowndes county.

The beer tax increase proposal was the first measure placed in the house hopper.

Later, in his message to the assembly, Governor Rivers asked for its adoption and urged that the added revenues obtained through the bill be allocated to the State Department of Education to help pay the cost of educating more than 200,000 additional pupils who enrolled in the common schools after the passage of the free-school-book bill and the seven-month-term bill.

The Governor also revealed in his speech that a bill, revamping the wine tax law, would be submitted later.

Representative Booth, of Barrow county, submitted a bill providing for a "chain store tax on theaters." Theaters are exempt from the present chain store tax.

Booth explained that the bill levies a tax of $50 against every theater and graduates the tax for chains to such a point that owners of chains must pay $400 for their sixteenth house and $400 for each additional house.

The Barrow county representative said he would introduce his proposed tax on soft drinks Thursday or Friday and that he planned later to offer a bill levying a tax on theater admissions. He said the yield from the soft drink tax would be allocated to the counties and that he contemplated

Bible and Taxation Will Go to Court

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Baker W. P. Stephens refused to pay an unemployment compensation tax on his pay roll today—and quoted the Bible to bolster his case.

"Man shall not store up treasures except in heaven," he told the state unemployment commission, insisting he would "abide by the law of God, not man."

Commissioner H. W. Kane countered: "The Bible provides that you must render unto Caesar those things that are Caesar's."

But Stephens said he'd go to court before he'd pay the tax. allocation of the theater tax to the eleemosynary institutions for their building program.

Second Increase. If the beer tax increase is approved, it will be the second increase in the levy on the beverage this year. Under the old law the tax was $1.25 per barrel. It was raised to $2.50 during the regular session.

Representative Harris estimated that the $4.50 levy would yield a total of more than $2,000,000 a year. Under the $1.25 levy the yield was $486,000 last year and revenue commission experts are forecasting an income of slightly over $1,000,000 this year, during which the tax was $1.25 for the first three months and $2.50 for the remaining period.

TECHWOOD DRIVE EXTENSION SOUGHT

Bill Proposes State Take Over Project.

A bill to allow the State Highway Department to take over and extend a part of Techwood drive in Atlanta was introduced in the house of representatives yesterday by the Fulton house delegation.

The bill proposes to widen a part of Bartow street to 50 feet and to widen Techwood to 70 feet from Cain street to Baker. Techwood would be extended to Cain street to connect state highways No. 14 and No. 8. The paper pointed out traffic congestion on Spring street would be materially relieved by opening the southern end of Techwood. The project would begin at Marietta and Spring, extend to the Bartow intersection, along Bartow to Luckie and thence to the Techwood drive extension.

State aid in maintaining the street would be authorized, provided it was approved by the State Highway Department. Representatives Helen Douglas Mankin, Cicero Kendrick and William G. Hastings signed the bill.

Governor Rivers Bids McGill "Bon Voyage"

Executive Department
Atlanta
November 22, 1937

Honorable Ralph McGill,
Hotel New Yorker,
New York City

Dear Ralph:

On the occasion of your undertaking your European trip, I want to take this opportunity of putting to record my very hearty congratulations on the fine award of this fellowship to you. No man in Georgia, or the South, could be more deserving of this splendid recognition.

I do sincerely hope you have a pleasant, as well as a profitable trip, and am pleased at the thought we will have the benefit of reading your articles as they appear from time to time.

With every good wish from Mrs. Rivers and me,
I am

Sincerely yours,

G. B. Rivers

Governor

On the eve of his departure for a six months' trip to Europe to make a study of economic conditions under sponsorship of the Rosenwald Foundation, Ralph McGill, sports editor of The Constitution, received an official "bon voyage" note from Governor Rivers. The letter, reproduced above, was delivered to McGill as he boarded the train for New York last night at Terminal station.

Ralph McGill Leaves for Europe For 6 Months' Study of Conditions

Sports Editor of The Constitution Will Visit British Isles, Denmark, Sweden and Norway Under Sponsorship of Rosenwald Foundation.

Ralph McGill, sports editor of The Constitution, left Atlanta by train last night for New York to sail for a six-month stay in Europe under sponsorship of the Rosenwald Foundation.

He will sail from New York on the Cunard White Star Liner Samaria at 4 o'clock, Atlanta time, Friday afternoon for Liverpool, England.

A letter of congratulation from Governor Rivers was delivered to McGill just before he was met at Terminal station by a small group of close friends headed by Earl Mann, president of the Atlanta Crackers, and a brass band.

It was an informal departure without any ceremony. Virginia Colvin McGill, not quite two years old, was there watching in wide-eyed wonder as her parents boarded the train for New York. Mrs. McGill will accompany her husband on the European trip, and for the next six months Virginia will live with her grandmother in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Governor Rivers' letter, addressed to McGill at the Hotel New Yorker, where he will spend the next three days, offered "heartiest congratulations for the fine award of this fellowship to you."

"No man in Georgia, or the South, could be more deserving of this splendid recognition," Governor Rivers said.

McGill will not linger long in Liverpool, leaving as soon as he docks by train for Harwich, England. He will sail from there across the North sea to Copenhagen, Denmark.

While on his tour, he will make a study of economic conditions of European countries and will report on their development since the World War.

He will spend the first two months of his trip touring Denmark, visiting the small towns, and studying rural and agricultural development. He will then tour the Scandinavian peninsula, visiting Norway and Sweden, and conclude his trip with a jaunt through the British Isles, returning to the United States in the late spring of next year.

SLAYER'S PLEA DROPPED. JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 22.—(UP)—Attorneys for William Clark Mitchell, former supreme court judge, have abandoned plans to appeal to the United States supreme court, it was reported today.

RIVERS WILL OPEN FOREST FETE TODAY

Senate and House Pave Way for Speedy Action on Proposals.

The general assembly moved swiftly toward enactment of recommendations of Governor Rivers yesterday, both the senate and house of representatives paving the way for speedy action on proposals backed by the Governor.

The measures were introduced by Rivers' leaders and referred to committees even before the Governor appeared before a joint session and asked their adoption.

Work Divided. As during the regular session both senate and house are dividing the early work, the former taking bills which do not provide taxes and the latter handling tax matters. Under the constitution all tax measures must be introduced in the house.

The house received bills providing for a new scale of tag prices for autos, buses and trucks as well as providing for an increase from $2.50 to $4.50 per barrel in the tax on beer.

In the senate, bills providing for the long-sought Rivers exemptions on homes and household and kitchen furniture were submitted along with another bill creating a state civil service commission and putting employees under civil service.

Spivey Handles Bill. President John B. Spivey is handling the proposed exemption for $300 worth of household and kitchen furniture, while Senator David S. Atkinson, of Savannah, senate floor leader, introduced the home exemption bill which provides for a $2,000 exemption on owner-occupied homes and farms from state, county and school district taxes. The Spivey bill would exempt $300 worth of furniture from all taxes, city as well as state, county and school district.

The Ennis bill creates a civil service commission and provides for a personnel director at $5,000 a year. A similar bill was passed by the senate during the regular session but tabled in the house.

It was the only Rivers-sponsored proposal of the regular session to fail of passage.

Other events of the week will include: A young people's parade tomorrow afternoon; a forest management program Wednesday afternoon, with Dr. Flerty speaking; the coronation of the festival queen, and the coronation ball Wednesday night; Forest Protection Day Thursday, with exhibits and field demonstrations; a boxing tournament Thursday night; an old-fashioned field meet Friday; and a general forestry program Saturday, the closing day.

Committees Speed Legislative Work

Legislative committees lost no time in getting their work under way yesterday.

The first bill to be reported out was one which was entrusted to Senator Phillips' highway committee. The bill is a measure by Senators Atkinson and Purdon giving ordinaries authority to try cases made by the State Highway Patrol in certain counties. It was approved by the committee.

Assembly Bills And Resolutions

HOUSE BILLS.

The following bills and resolutions were introduced in the house of representatives yesterday and referred to committees:

H. B. 13.—By Suttou, of Wilkes: To amend the act creating the office of tax commissioner in Wilkes county.

H. B. 14.—By Larsen, of Laurens: To fix the salary of the solicitor general of the Dublin circuit.

H. B. 15.—By Colquitt delegation: To provide for exemption from garnishment of $1,000 a day and 50 per cent in excess thereof of wages.

H. B. 16.—By Colquitt delegation: To define term "livestock dealers."

H. B. 17.—By Evans, of McDuffie, and others: To amend the house rules by restricting the powers of conference committee.

H. B. 18.—By Evans, of McDuffie, and others: To provide that senate amendments to house bills and conference committee reports shall be adopted by a majority vote on the house membership.

H. B. 19.—By Evans, of McDuffie, and others: To provide that no conference committee report shall be in order after 6 o'clock, central standard time.

H. B. 20.—By Evans, of McDuffie, and others: To provide that no conference committee report shall be in order after 6 o'clock, central standard time.

SENATE BILLS.

The following bills and resolutions were introduced in the senate yesterday and referred to committees:

S. B. 1.—By Senator Spivey: A bill to permit exemption up to $300 on household and kitchen furniture.

S. B. 2.—By Senator Atkinson: To provide for a personnel director at $5,000 a year.

S. B. 3.—By Senator Purdon: To provide for a civil service commission.

S. B. 4.—By Senator Ennis: To create a state civil service commission.

S. B. 5.—By Senator Purdon: To provide for the incorporation of a timber protective association.

COUNTY ROAD PLAN APPARENTLY SPIKED

Special Tax Committee Makes No Mention of Its 7-Point Program.

The controversial proposal for the state to take over all the roads of Georgia, including those now under the jurisdiction of the counties, wasn't even mentioned yesterday as the special session of the assembly got under way.

The special legislative tax committee, apparently abandoning its earlier indicated support of the plan, did not mention it in its report and Governor Rivers made no mention of it in his first message to the legislature.

The Association of County Commissioners of Georgia conducted a strong campaign against the plan. In its report to the assembly the special tax committee, headed by Senator Guy Jackson, recommended the following:

1. Retention of the ad valorem system, but a general strengthening and simplification of its application.

2. Appointment of a state tax commissioner, who would be the supreme taxing authority.

3. Reorganization and consolidation of tax collecting agencies of the state.

4. Abolition of the revenue commission.

5. Revision of the entire tax system.

6. Reasonable rates and a law "with teeth" for collection of taxes on intangibles.

7. Revision of the "slip-shod and inequitable" methods of assessment.

MORE ABOUT COTTON

There is, in the current issue of The Saturday Evening Post, an exhaustive analysis of the present status of cotton, erstwhile monarch of southern agriculture, which should be read by every southerner.

It is written by Felix Belair Jr. and is of added significance because its author is not of cotton-south origin and because of its publication in a weekly magazine which has, generally, been severely critical of the present Democratic administration.

Careful presentation of the story of cotton for the past two decades is made, with the conclusion that growing foreign production and too low prices have worked tremendous harm to the economic structure of the south, reducing standards of living and shattering millions of the people to perpetual debt and servitude.

It is argued that production control, while it has failed to improve the cotton farmer's lot and has actually resulted in encouraging cotton production in other parts of the world, appears to be inevitable for years to come. "The cotton south has become pitifully dependent upon federal subsidies and federal programs," the author holds.

This is certainly, to a degree, true. Elemental justice would dictate that the south, so long victimized by the United States tariff policies, has the right to expect some direct return after half a century of tribute paying.

While the article praises much of the effort put forth under the Roosevelt administration to improve the lot of the cotton producer, it yet blames a portion of the present predicament upon vacillating policies and the inability of the agricultural administrators to resist the constant pressure of small groups seeking federal "handouts."

"Certainly the cotton situation just now is such that governmental intervention for an indefinite period seems to be imperative," writes Mr. Belair.

In view of the numerous other similar expressions from students of the cotton situation, it seems probable that the farm program ultimately adopted by the congress will be a combination of production control and some form of subsidy, probably in the shape of further payments for soil conservation.

Representative Carl Vinson, one of the best posted members of the Georgia delegation in regard to cotton, urges a five-point program including: (1) Continuation of the present soil conservation and land upbuilding program, with larger direct cash benefits for those who cooperate; (2) Cotton acreage allotments to every farmer; (3) Scaled allotments not to exceed 25 per cent of the average cotton acreage for the past five years; (4) The program to be voluntary; and (5) Necessary finances to be raised by general taxes instead of a processing tax. The weak link in the Vinson program is the voluntary feature. Unless there is a subsidy to effectively induce compliance, there is little likelihood that cotton farmers as a whole will voluntarily reduce that acreage by three-fourths.

Certainly, as Mr. Belair points out in his Saturday Evening Post article, help from the federal government is imperative.

IT MAY BE PUBLISHER ROOSEVELT

Reports from Washington are to the effect that President Roosevelt is considering the possibilities in newspaper publishing after he ends his tenure of the White House. It is stated that intimates of the President have indicated they wouldn't be surprised if he received and accepted an offer to take over one of the large dailies if he decides not to seek a third term in 1940.

It is the belief of the President, these same intimates declare, that he can largely preserve with his pen the social reforms he has championed during his administration. He recognizes, it is said, the influence that an ex-President, with such a popular following as his could wield through the medium of printers' ink.

It would not be surprising if these rumors eventually proved true. Since his graduation from Harvard, Roosevelt has indicated a deep interest in the newspaper publishing profession. During his press conferences he frequently goes into detail as to how he thinks the correspondents should write their stories, as well as indicating his opinion on the "news value" of the subject matter of the moment—and the prominence he thinks it should receive in the press of the nation.

Recent ex-presidents have invariably turned to some sort of educational pursuit. They have taught in universities and written special articles or syndicated columns for the daily press. It would be in line with precedent, therefore, as well as an interesting experiment to watch,

If President Roosevelt should turn to the management of a big newspaper after his years of service as a public official are over.

HOWARD EARLE COFFIN

The untimely death of Howard Earle Coffin removes from the Georgia scene an adopted son whose name is indissolubly linked with much of the remarkable progress of the coastal section of the state. He did more, perhaps, than any other man to develop and bring to nationwide attention the resort values of the Golden Isles of Guale, those garden spots of nature at her loveliest that dot the Georgia coast.

The Sea Island development, where scores of leaders from all parts of the nation have established homes, is an enduring monument to the love Howard Coffin had for the coastal regions of Georgia. His personality and the courage of his faith are evidenced by the splendid development of the island—much of which he financed out of his personal funds.

Howard Coffin, leader in the automobile and aviation industries, world-famous engineer and adviser, found in south Georgia an ideal Eden for his later years. Reveling in its beauty and bounties of climate he could never be content until he had brought his beloved garden spot to the knowledge of others.

The result is the lovely place known as Sea Island which will remain to keep his memory as green as the giant oaks which stretch their ancient limbs across the quiet island graveyard where he will find his final resting place.

ENGLAND DOES SOMETHING ABOUT COAL

During the brief period while he occupied the British throne the present Duke of Windsor, visiting poverty-stricken homes of coal miners, declared "something must be done."

Now, the British government appears to be doing that "something" toward ameliorating the hard lot of the miners. And, remarkably enough, the initiative is being taken by the Conservative party in parliament.

Heading that party's program for the present session is a bill providing for what they call "unification of coal royalties."

What the bill proposes is for the government to buy up all surface ground ownership in the coal regions, thus doing away with the system of royalty payments which have been the prime cause of economic troubles for coal. Under British law the owner of land has a perpetual right to all minerals under that land and coal mine owners in the past have had to pay royalties on every ton of coal taken out. This has not only been a severe financial drain, but has added tremendously to the cost of mine operation because of the multiplicity of surface owners. It has often been necessary to abandon a mine because of the location of the surface property line and sink a new shaft beyond a piece of land in order to again tap the coal vein.

The Conservatives now propose to buy all these surface rights on a basis of lump sums equalling estimated royalties for 15 years. Operators will, at present at least, continue working the mines but it is considered probable that later the government will establish an engineering supervision and dictate which veins are to be worked and which abandoned.

The amazing thing about this plan, from the American view, is that it is the British Conservatives who sponsor the plan. This is equal, in American government, to the Republican party advocating nationalization of a private industry in America.

The British are a peculiar people and no more peculiar than in their habit of achieving revolutionary changes in government in quiet, matter of fact, routine way. They simply do what must be done, without a lot of heated argument or pointing with alarm. They give their reforms polite, innocuous names and no Britisher ever seems to suspect that, by such drastic programs, they are in danger of surrendering their ideals to radicals, fascists, communists or other advocates of perilous "isms."

Old Britain stumbles along the road to realization of a socialist's dream, without bitterness, without trumpets, but eventually she reaches a not undesirable goal.

A film star's wife is awarded alimony of $2,750 a month. It embodies the many advantages of the old-fashioned California gold rush, without the rushing.

A proposal to motorize the Royal Scot Greys has been howled down by the sentimental British, as there's nothing prettier on a distiller's calendar than a horse.

Early fears that the new Brazilian set-up was Fascist are dispelled, as it turns out that Boss Vargas didn't proclaim it from an upstairs window.

Editorial of the Day

DISAPPOINTMENT EITHER WAY
(From The St. Louis Globe Democrat.)

Disappointment is bound to attend the outcome of an experiment in fall corn planting that is now under way in Illinois. Proof of the pudding and decision as to who has been deluded will come about corn-planting time next spring, when the test seed will have sprouted if the experimenters are right or will be found rotted in the ground if they are wrong.

Success of such an experiment, however, would be important to the nation's corn growers, especially in areas where planting is often late and frost is usually early. For in many parts of the country the problem of planting, growing and maturing corn before the coming of killing frosts in the fall is great. Especially in backward springs when planting is delayed beyond the ordinary.

So it is well to understand that the Illinois test is nothing more than the test of a theory. A Chicago man has invented a process by which seed corn is so treated that, he believes, it may be placed in the ground in the fall and pass through the winter undamaged, to germinate at a time when nature decrees germination should start at the beginning of the growing season. The treatment is chemical and is said to preserve without involving germ integrity, producing "exceptionally hardy plant life growth and yields above the average." The chemical concoction, presumably, is secret and would be marketed at a price if the test proves fruitful. Howard D. Salins is the inventive chemist and John Nepermann, or at least several acres of his Dundee farm lying up Elgin way, the guinea pig of proof if proof follows. The test acres were planted with the treated corn seed the last week in October and, just as fall-planted wheat produces its berry the following summer safely in advance of the frosts of fall, the "winter corn" will offer a mature crop "early in August" if the inventor's theories are sound.

The result of success and general application of fall planting of America's greatest crop in acres, bushels and dollars would be revolutionary.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—A wild scrimmage for access to the President's ear in the matter of utilities policy is now in progress at the White House—a scrimmage which is likely to prove one of the most important in all the troubled history of New Deal palace politics, for the whole administration approach to the present depression is likely to depend on its issue.

The very Ark of the Covenant of the New Deal, the President's aggressive attitude toward the utilities, is involved in the scrimmage. The question is whether or not to counteract the panic terror now pervading American business by making concessions to the utilities. If the President's moderate advisers are successful in obtaining concessions on this point, conservatism and the conciliation of business will be the keynote of the vital next months. If the left-wingers in his circle continue as triumphantly persuasive as they have been hitherto, little notice will be taken of the depression's advance unless it grows so bad that a vast spending program is inevitable.

LEFT-WING STAND Entertainingly enough, if the left-wingers are victorious, they will have to thank for their victory the same nine elderly gentlemen in whose self-reversal last spring they saw such calculated wickedness. Their leading argument is that, since the supreme court is now friendly to the New Deal, concessions must not be made to the utilities until the justices have dealt the administration three aces by sustaining the holding company law and the TVA and PWA programs.

The left-wingers around the President do not subscribe very heartily to the theory that changes in public psychology are effective in fighting depressions. They do not believe that, even if concessions are made to them and their future is assured, the utilities will respond by pouring much more money into construction work than the $400,000,000-odd they spent on it in the past year. Moreover, the elaborate regulatory corset which the federal government has built around the utility business is almost entirely the handiwork of the President's left-wing advisers. These three factors account for their energetic opposition to concessions on the utility front, and for the violence of the White House scrimmage.

According to the left-wingers, the President's recent offer to make peace with the utilities, in return for their voluntary acceptance of new rates based on the prudent investment value of their properties, is a cheerful sham. They will tell you that most of the utilities systems are top-heavily organized, that they could not get along with rates recalculated to meet the President's offer. And the left-wingers are smilingly confident that the President will not go much further than he has already. They even deny that there is likelihood of revision of the "death sentence" clause of the holding company act in the near future.

ANGLE OF MODERATES The moderates, on the other hand, hope for nothing less than a permanent peace with the utilities; a peace founded on administration assurance of a profitable future for the companies and a quid pro quo from the companies in the shape of somewhat reduced rates to the consumers. The moderates believe that such a peace would have the best possible effect on the business situation, and they are urging the President to dust off his supply of olive branches as quickly as possible.

The aspects of the administration's power policy which chiefly disturb the utilities executives are two. The utilities men have a suspicion, which among some of them amounts to a grin conviction, that the President wants to dig them straight out of business, by government competition sponsored by the TVA and its proposed little brothers. They are also sweating at the prospect of the stringent federal regulation to which they will soon have to submit, unless the left-wingers of the White House are betting wrong on the supreme court's reaction to the holding company act. Therefore, the moderates want the President to make the utilities a peace offer with the following provisions: to give all utilities companies, except those regarded as incorrigible at the White House, that they will be permitted to continue in business and go on earning a reasonable profit, if they will accept the President's definition of "reasonable." Additional promises to be made that the federal government will finance no more publicly-owned distribution systems, and some compromise in the matter of rate bases to be made.

2. In exchange for the assurances and the promises, the utilities companies to take their medicine like little men and register with the SEC. The companies to go into the money markets newly firmed by the good news from Washington, refund their large bonded indebtedness at lower interest, and pass this profit on to the consumers. The utilities also to expand their construction programs as much as possible.

PRESIDENT'S ATTITUDE UNKNOWN The contestants in the White House do not know themselves which side the President inclines to. An important straw blew down the wind last week, however, when Mr. Wendell L. Willkie, of the Commonwealth & Southern Company, who is the leading moderate-minded utilitarian, suddenly turned up in Washington for a conference with the President. The White House intimates pretty plainly that Mr. Willkie suggested his visit, but actually he came by a White House invitation to discuss the utilities problem. He is a moderate, and his engagements in New York the same morning. Because of a presidential toothache, no conference took place, but it is still a natural inference that, if the President was anxious to see Mr. Willkie, he must have wanted to do something more than "give him a jolly."

The oddest feature of this whole strange situation, so intimately affecting the administration's future, is the fact that, whatever the left-wingers say, the famous death sentence clause is likely to be modified. The death sentence clause is an important part of the present controversy, but it is interesting, nevertheless, that the utilities experts of the Securities and Exchange Commission are almost unanimously agreed that the clause in its present strict mandatory form will be virtually impossible to apply efficiently. They want a revision of it which would set up general standards of utilities management for the commission's guidance, and then allow the commission to bring each utilities company as nearly as practicable into line with the general standards. Whatever else is done, the betting is now that the commission experts will have their way on this point.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

He may be all a lad should be,
Decent, smart and brave,
But still I like him not, for he Has had a permanent wave.

While There's Youth
There's Hope.

Observers of local, national and world trends are apt, these days, to become so fixated by pessimism that they are unable to see the good. There are so many logical reasons for viewing with alarm and, sometimes, it seems there are only occasional and comparatively rare opportunities to point with pride.

To all whose pessimism is about to get the better of them I advise a visit to some place where they can see or mingle with youth, in large numbers. If the sight of young women and boys, eager, clean and intelligent, preparing themselves to take their places as good citizens, doesn't arouse a new hope for this old world in their breasts, they are hopeless foreboders of gloom.

Within the past seven days I have been my fortune to visit two high schools and one junior high. Hence all this reawakening of confidence.

Eager Young Womanhood.

Both of the high schools were of the feminine persuasion.

At one, in Decatur, I heard the glee club sing in operetta. The singing was good but that's not the theme for today. It was the wide-awake eagerness, the alert interest in their singing that impressed. At the Girls' High in the city of Atlanta, the occasion was an assembly climaxing "posture" week. All the girls were massed in an auditorium. And there was a sense of aliveness, if you understand, in the very atmosphere. Without a word, in complete silence, you nevertheless felt the presence of something keen and vital. It was decent youth, vibrant with ambition and hope and determination and eagerness.

They stand on the threshold of womanhood, bringing to the nation a contribution of new human force that must mean a lot in the generation they represent.

It is impossible to believe that the pressing problems of the stumbling social order cannot be solved with so much ability waiting its turn.

Of Course, Average Is an Inflexible Law.

Of course, out of those hundreds of girls, there will be a few who will not prove worthy units of so-called average. It is inevitable, in this faulty old universe of ours, that each class shall contribute its quota of delinquents, as well as its vastly greater proportion of decent citizens.

But it's hard, and pitiful, too, to force realization that, somewhere in the ranks of the criminal underworld, I said the law of averages made this certain.

But, on second thought, I refuse to believe it. There is too much strength of character and of intelligence, to make it reasonable.

Averages, experience, probabilities and all to the contrary, it is just impossible to force belief that any one of these girls seen on the few weeks we breathe disgrace on her school and her class.

I prefer to believe otherwise. Don't you think so, too, girls? Please make my belief true through all the years to come.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

State NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Lottery These dispatches recently contained a reference to the absence of fancy money in the state of Nevada and a suggestion that, of all our states, this one was best prepared to get the jump on the others with a state lottery. This advantage exists in the fact that neither Nevada's books nor her public opinion ever compel themselves to artificial morals.

New York, on the other hand, could not establish a defensive state lottery to reverse the flow of New York money to Nevada's public treasury in less than half a dozen years. First it would be necessary to convince the people that their moral objections to lotteries were really unimportant, a process which would take time and pressure similar to the slow development of national sentiment against prohibition.

True believers in prohibition eventually waived their moral objections to repeal and the return of the corner saloon in favor of the revenue in resentment against the prosperity of the bootlegger. If Nevada were to start a state lottery today, as she easily might for all that the federal government could do about it, her tickets would sell in New York by the million in spite of everything the post office department, the Department of Justice and the New York state government might do to exclude them.

Nevada's Nevada would get rich beyond the craziest dreams of the most ardent money-lover on earth and the people of New York—and other states, of course—would compel themselves to abandon a principle by way of retaliation and self-protection. In this they would be assisted by reminders that, after all, the anti-lottery laws and sentiment were not any of their doing. The anti-lottery laws were long dead. They were not consulted, but just accepted the moral tradition against lotteries on the word of their civic ancestors.

But having prepared public sentiment, the proponents of defensive lotteries then would have to proceed through the tedious method of constitutional amendment, which, in New York and some other states, requires several years more.

Meanwhile, Nevada would be cleaning up, and by the time the other states could get into serious competitive action Nevada would have sucked the orange fairly dry and be ready for a taxless existence extending far into the future.

I mentioned Florida as another possible pioneer, but Florida is hampered by an hypocrisy which would cause uncertainty and delay. Florida's principles and customs are no better than those of Nevada, but to keep up with the Joneses. She has gambling joints but tolerates them on the graft and corruption system instead of accepting the name along with the game.

Nevada Nevada is a frank and forthright wanton who taps a nickel on the pane and utters euphemisms to describe herself in court, whereas Florida pretends to respectability and when picked up by the cops describes herself as "home girl" or "housewife." Nevada says, "Come up and see me sometime," and Florida says, "I certainly hope we can have a good heart to heart talk."

Strangely, there appears to be no book dealing with the innate character and the present-day habits of Nevada, although there is plenty of material on her mountains and minerals, a lack which I trust will be repaired by some author in search of a character. Her press agents, who describe her on their letterheads as "one sound statistic," give only a rather staid story in boasting of an existence comparable to that of Monte Carlo, where there is no state income tax, no inheritance tax, no franchise or stock transfer tax, no bonded debt held by interests other than the state's own government, and a per capita tax of wealth the highest in the country.

Fugitive tax slaves are invited to establish legal residence in Nevada, and names are cited of many wealthy runaways who have done so already.

As to the fascinating character of the state, the presentation is slightly apologetic, defending Reno as being no better or worse than any other city of equal size. That is a little disappointing. I hope Nevada is not going to start calling herself "home girl" or "housewife" too. Florida has never fooled anybody, and Nevada's frankness has been one of her charms.

Casper Milquetoast Seems His Silliest When He Squalls Threats He Can't Make Good

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

A certain man named Sam, rich and reckless in the pride of his youthful strength, regarded combat in a righteous cause as the most creditable of many sports. It was his practice and pleasure, when he saw a big man abusing a small one, to join the fray without waste of words and spoil the big one.

Upon one occasion, seeing a notorious bully besting a much smaller but valorous adversary, he leaped from his saddle, roaring: "Hold him, Shorty! I'm coming! He can't do that to you!"

These gallant words became his battle-cry, known far and wide, and in time were sufficient in themselves to protect the weak and stop the abuses of the strong.

As the years passed, Sam put on weight and his might increased, but his wealth increased, also, with the usual effect upon his disposition and behavior. He became a conservative. The burden of his responsibilities tamed him.

None had reason to question his courage, for he struck hard when pressed too far, but he was no longer rash and reckless and all men knew that he would exhaust all other expedients before going into battle.

Now, when this change occurs in a man, it might be supposed that his sentiments alter to match his behavior. It would be better if that were true, but alas it is not. He kept the peace for discretion's sake, but his wrath still blazes at the sight of injustice and his fingers itch for the bully's throat.

Thus it was with Sam. He could not contain himself when he saw a big man beating a small one, yet he would not go to the rescue.

As a sop to his conscience, and to ease his troubled spirit, he roared as of old: "Hold him, Shorty! He can't do that to you!" But you will observe that he omitted the most significant phrase. He never said: "I'm coming!"

The result was unfortunate and almost tragic. Both the bully and the little fellow were fooled. The big fellow, thinking Sam might interfere, struck faster and harder to finish the job before he got there. The little fellow, thinking Sam meant to help him, risked everything and burned his bridges behind him to hold out until Sam arrived. And both hated Sam with good reason—the bully for siding against him, and the little fellow for egging him on by seeming to promise help which he never gave.

In time, of course, Sam was justly despised by everybody. People spoke scornfully of him, saying: "He's a wind bag. Does his fighting with his mouth. Can't keep his lip out of anything, but isn't man enough to back it up."

And a nation suffers the same humiliation when it adopts the same policy.

World's Window Good Morning

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

On a Slow Train Through Wisconsin.

As long as I lived in France we had every year—and especially in the summertime—a number of American visitors up at the house. They came to greet us, ask for addresses, information, stayed for lunch or dinner, took a stroll around and then departed for wherever they were going, into the depths of Europe, some to Italy, others to Germany, Russia, the Scandinavian countries or Palestine.

On their way back they would drop in again just before sailing home. As to which kicks and complaints did I not have to listen. One coming from Bucharest would tell me that they had made him change trains in Basel. Another had his American cigars taken away by a Lithuanian customs officer. Still another had his wife's underwear pawed over by a Croat official. All had something to complain about. The French had not been polite, the Germans too inquisitive, the Russians downright idiotic or the Italians eccentric.

And the service! Heavens above, no word for it! Cold cars, hard benches, poor meals, every official a chiseler. I used to commiserate, try to explain, seek to mitigate, although I am in no way to help others. Literature is radiant with the testimonies of those who have found it so, and history seems to confirm the truth that the path to happiness lies along the way of service.

'Turkey Trotters' Will Hear Rivers

Governor Rivers will be principal speaker at the third annual "Turkey Trot Day" to be held tomorrow in Villa Rica, under sponsorship of the Villa Rica Civitan Club. More than 15,000 persons are expected to attend the event.

"Turkey Trot Day" is featured by the letting loose of a number of turkeys from a high tower in the public square, the birds going to those who catch them. However, the rule is "only one turkey to a person."

E. R. Cleghorn is chairman of the arrangements committee, whose members are C. M. Griffin, J. W. Cole, W. N. Neal, F. J. Daniell and B. P. Neal. S. N. Richardson is chairman of the finance committee.

AUTO CLUB URGES CENT GAS TAX CUT

East Georgia Motor Group Says Levy Totals $60 Per Car a Year.

A request for a cent-a-gallon reduction on Georgia's gasoline tax and lower license costs was telegraphed state officials yesterday from Augusta by General E. E. Taub, president of the East Georgia Motor Club.

The telegram, sent to Governor Rivers, House Speaker Harris and Senate President Spivey, said:

"The East Georgia Motor Club serving 32 counties . . . respectfully requests that the present session reduce the gas tax one cent per gallon and fix price of license tax at lower rate. Motorists of Georgia pay an average of $60 taxes per vehicle per year, which is double the amount paid 10 years ago."

The club opposed any change in the distribution of license tags, saying that the present system "enhances efficiency of highway patrol, drivers license and identification of car owners in case of accidents."

civil service—advocated by Rivers last session and again today—made its appearance in the senate hopper.

71-Page Message.

Rivers' message to the legislature covered 71 typewritten pages, reviewed work already done on his program, cited difficulties and disappointments in some laws passed early this year, struck sharply at his predecessor, Governor Eugene Talmadge, and outlined in detail the work he hopes the legislature can accomplish by Christmas.

There is no time limit on extra sessions of the legislature, but Rivers and his legislative chief, Speaker Roy Harris, of the house, and President John Spivey, of the senate—both predicted a short session. In the legislative corridors, however, some assemblymen looked at the Governor's call and after hearing his speech mumbled that they probably would be here next Easter.

Includes All Bills.

The Governor emphasized he had included in his call all bills requested by members of the assembly but said many legislators had promised they would scuttle their pet measures if it appeared they were running into trouble or veering the legislature from its chief problem—tax reform.

Rivers summarized the task of the legislature in one paragraph of his message.

"The main task before this session of the general assembly is the revision of the system of taxation, so that tax relief may be granted to people now overburdened and tax responsibility may be placed on people now shirking it entirely or in too great part, to the end that the tax burden may be more equitably distributed and thus more easily borne, and to the end that adequate revenue may be raised to pay the appropriations bill passed at our regular session."

Education Program.

Rivers sketched the work of the new State Board of Education. He said it had paid $500,000 to school patrons in buying up old books; spent $1,543,593 in buying new books which if bought at retail would have cost $2,720,208.

The seven-month minimum school term law, he said, had brought $9,256,000 to local communities where they received $9,600,000 last year.

He told how an increase in health appropriations from $100,000 to $600,000 had given the state an added $400,000 in federal funds, a better health program and increased earning power of Georgians thereby.

Stabs at Talmadge.

It was in his discussion of the highway department that he criticized Talmadge most sharply.

"The last administration," Rivers said, "had not only spent all state funds but had gone into debt on future state funds of the department approximately $3,500,000." Furthermore, he said, the

Governor Returns to Rostrum To Deliver Message

Back on the rostrum where he formerly presided as speaker, Governor Rivers is shown as he delivered his message to a joint session of the general assembly yesterday in the house of representatives. Mrs. Rivers is sitting at the left, and John B. Spivey, president of the senate, reclines in the speaker's chair while he listens to the Governor outline the work of the special session.

old Talmadge board gave counties so little for contract work that "counties were having to levy heavy local taxes." He referred to "neglect of maintenance of roads by the last administration," said the "department was disorganized in personnel, the engineering staff was reduced to such a point of inefficiency that the federal government could not work with it," and that the public lacked confidence in the department "by reason of favoritism and dictation from the Governor's office and other practices not necessary to detail."

"Roads Washing Away."

He said the highway staff was forced to work day and night to prevent the loss of federal aid funds, and to save roads which had been partially completed and were washing away.

Rivers said the federal highway aid law penalized states which diverted road money and that "diversion" of approximately three million dollars by the "last administration" made it necessary that the money be replaced to avoid the loss of about $1,000,000. To meet this, he recommended that the diversion be replaced out of maintenance tag receipts. He said this would leave the problem of financing the rural route program.

Revises Highway Law.

To meet that, he recommended revision of the highway law to permit it to "set aside any funds it may have on hand for such purposes to match any federal funds that would be available for rural route construction, so that we may carry on the rural route program pending the time the diversion may be repaid by the maintenance tag tax."

"Inequitable Tax."

He said he believed the maintenance tag tax to support rural routes is "inequitable," and that "its schedule of fees should be revised so that those of the large operators now paying their just part will be forced to do so, and those of the small operators now paying too much be proportionately relieved."

As for taxing intangibles, Rivers said: "The second step in tax revision that I recommend you take is to pass enabling acts for the classification of intangibles." Legal technicalities, he warned, make it advisable that intangibles tax laws be written "on an assessment basis, rather than on a maximum rate basis. In doing so, I suggest you make the assessments sufficiently low to derive only the just share of taxes from this class of property and sufficiently low to where the tax in this class of property cannot justly be assigned as an excuse, or reason, for people withholding this class of property from the tax digest, or removing it or themselves beyond the state."

Revolutionary Change.

One of the most revolutionary changes in the fiscal system to be tackled since then Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. sponsored the budget, pay-as-you-go system was included in Rivers' message.

He suggested that all tax money be allocated specifically. Under the present arrangement, some tax money is allocated to specific departments or agencies; other tax money comes into the treasury and is appropriated out in lump sums by the legislature.

Rivers said he believed the appropriations plan the better, but less practicable at this time. "Allocations do have the virtue of showing the people for what purpose a tax is levied and what specific governmental service is rendered with this specific tax." He said this was the "third step" in tax revision.

The fourth step is a proposal for a "treasury title" under which 10 per cent of each agency's income would go into the treasury to create an emergency, or stabilization, fund. This fund would be used to keep an agency or department functioning when economic upheaval or other causes bring a reduction in its normal income.

For the fifth step, he recommended an interdepartmental debenture system, under which one department could borrow money from another to meet emergencies. He advocated the plan as a means of providing a building fund for eleemosynary institutions.

$4,000,000 Deficit.

The Governor said if ad valorem taxation is retained for state revenue, a future annual deficit of $4,000,000 is indicated for public schools and the university system if appropriations are paid 100 per cent. He suggested the beer tax be raised 50 per cent, and the wine tax revised slightly. How to get the remainder of revenue—some $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 annually—is a matter he left for the legislature. He dwelt at length on this, but in this discussion of the alternate plans for ad valorem taxes. The latter he termed "the sixth step."

The Governor emphasized he believes the home exemption plan should fix the figure at $2,000.

$6,000,000 Relief.

"I think these exemption enabling acts should be enacted ahead of the tax revision program, so that we can keep faith with the people in taking off some tax through the revision," he said. "By the passage of proper enabling acts to these exemptions, you will take off approximately six million dollars' ad valorem tax from the people on their homes, household and kitchen furniture and domestic animals. Slightly more than five million dollars of this will be taken off through relief of local school and county levies and slightly less than a million dollars will be taken off through state levies on this property, making a total of approximately six million dollars of relief through these exemptions."

"Under the constitutional amendment, I am advised that we must start the exemption of homes at $2,000, and I know the people in voting thought they were voting for $2,000 exemption, because the issues were fought on that basis, both by the people sponsoring these measures and those opposing them."

"I, therefore, recommend to you that you pass enabling acts necessary to put into effect the exemption of owner-occupied homes at $2,000 and household and kitchen furniture and domestic animal exemptions at $300, and that the enabling acts, providing the machinery for setting aside these exempted properties, making a description thereof open to public inspection, and providing strict regulations and penalties for the practice of fraud in seeking to impose upon this exemption where not entitled to it."

On 1937 Appraisals.

"I recommend that at the outset the exempted properties be on the basis of the 1937 appraisals, so that the people may actually and promptly receive the exemption they have been promised, and for which they voted. Thereafter I recommend that the manner of appraising the exemptions be through the same machinery now provided, or as you may provide for assessing property for taxation, so as to avoid duplication in appraisal machinery."

Intangibles, he said, should be taxed on a percentage of their valuation rather than a limit on the levy.

Discussing this phase of his program, Governor Rivers said:

"By writing the intangible tax law on the assessment basis on this property will automatically adjust itself and there will be no need of a distribution feature of the law."

Give to Counties.

"Should you differ with this recommendation as to classifying and fixing assessments, rather than on rates, and should you take the view you should fix a maximum rate, rather than assessment, I recommend that the intangible tax wholly, or at least the greater part, to be given to the counties and municipalities to assist them in making up for the loss from their digest through the exemption proposals. The cities lose only the household exemptions."

"Through the counties and municipalities receiving all, or the bulk, of the intangible tax, and through the enforced and uniform assessment of automobile, trucks and buses, they will have considerable additional revenue flowing to them."

"In addition to this we propose to further make up the loss in revenue from the exemptions, to the counties by benefits of the rural route program, by continuing the increased price county contracts from the highway department to help them support their convicts, and by final normal operation of the social security program to relieve them of the support of the poorhouses and paupers."

Intangible Classification.

"The second step in tax revision that I recommend you take is to pass enabling acts for the classification of intangibles in line with the constitutional amendment voted by the people, giving you this authority. By the writing of an intangible act and provision for the distribution of funds derived from this source of taxation, you will have disposed of the second step in the tax revision program."

"In view of the fact that there are some special constitutional provisions, with reference to levies on the part of some of our subdivisions, and that the policy of the law is to reconcile the different provisions of the constitution on the same subject matter, it is thought by those who have studied the question that in the classification of intangibles it will not be legal to fix a maximum tax rate on them but that it is proper to fix a maximum assessment rate on them."

"In view of this legal proposition, I recommend that you enact enabling acts on this constitutional amendment on an assessment basis, rather than on a maximum rate basis. In doing so, I suggest that you make the assessments sufficiently low to derive only the just share of taxes from this class of property and sufficiently low to where the tax on this class of property cannot justly be assigned as an excuse, or reason, for people withholding their class of property from the tax digest or removing it or themselves from the state."

Complete Allocation.

The Governor then declared there should be a complete allocation.

GOVERNOR URGES
TAX AID FOR TRADE

tion of all of the state's revenues 90 per cent going to the cause for which the allocation is made and the remaining 10 per cent put into the general treasury as an emergency fund.

"There will be attached to this message a suggested program of allocations of our revenue to do this budget job in this manner," he said. "From this schedule you will see that sufficient funds are being derived from present sources of taxation when allocated to present governmental services to fully pay our budget, with the sole exception of the educational program. By this completed system of allocations we will reduce the whole revenue problem of the state down to the one proposition of financing our educational system. I believe this to be desirable, both on the part of the assembly and the people, and I so recommend it."

Is Third Step.
"The completion of the system of allocations I recommend to be the third step in your revision program."

"In any system of allocations, either as far as we have already gone in that connection, or in carrying the allocations to the complete budget, it is essentially that there be established a treasury stabilization fund. This is necessary for the reason that allocations fluctuate and do not evenly jibe with the appropriation desired. I, therefore, recommend that a 'treasury tithe' of 10 per cent be established or all funds coming into the treasury and that this constitute a treasury stabilization fund to be used in causing allocations to meet, and only meet, the appropriation fixed by the general assembly. We now have a semblance of such a stabilization fund through the 3 per cent collections, but this is not sufficient for sound financing. I believe that 10 per cent is sufficient and I recommend that it be fixed at this amount. By the establishing of such a stabilization fund, we would, in my opinion, in no way jeopardize any governmental activity supported by allocations but, on the contrary, would stabilize these activities."

Building Program.
The Governor detailed his program for construction of new buildings for the eleemosynary institutions thusly:
"Our eleemosynary institutions must have a building program. This program is a capital investment and not an operating expense. We can hardly levy additional taxes for such a program to get the funds in hand immediately, yet the need is most acute. You levied a chain store tax last session for this purpose, but the revenue has been terribly disappointing. Whether you finally finance this building through the chain store tax or some other tax, the money will not be immediately available, yet the building program must start."

Debt Plan.
"To meet this and any future similar situation, I recommend that you authorize the issuance of interdepartmental debentures, whereby one department may issue debentures against a definitely allocated fund for the amount of revenue anticipated from that source for one year in advance, and discount this debenture with another department that may have funds it will not immediately need. Other states have and are successfully using this plan in meeting similar emergencies, and saving interest that would have to be paid private institutions on loans. It is especially important to have this debenture provision if we are to finance a repair and building program for our eleemosynary institutions over a period of time, rather than to undertake raising the money all at one time for that purpose."

"In the light of the fact that we do not want to levy additional burdens on our people after payment of the present appropriation bill 100 per cent, it is best for us to undertake to finance the eleemosynary building program on an extended building basis. This building program must be financed. We cannot afford to run the hazard of epidemics breaking out among our insane people and other unfortunate cases."

How It Works.
"Only by the debenture plan do I see a means of meeting the situation without levying a tremendous additional burden upon our people at one time. We may, by the debenture plan, anticipate the revenue 12 months in advance of whatever fund you allocate to this purpose, and let some department of the government, which has excess funds on hand, hold these debentures for 12 months until the anticipated revenue comes into the treasury. Meanwhile, we can carry on the building program so directly needed."

"I recommend this interdepartmental debenture plan be enacted."

Either Acceptable.
Governor Rivers pointed to the two avenues for tax reform by saying that either of them would be acceptable to him. Although he has repeatedly said that he is not now advocating a sales tax, he did say in his speech yesterday he would "go down the line" with the legislature in any program it agrees upon.

In discussing the new tax program, he said:
"Dr. John W. Martin, a native Georgian and for years a resident of DeKalb county, who helped write the new Kentucky tax system for Governor Chandler and the general assembly of that state and who is at present time tax commissioner of Kentucky, has been working with us on tax revision in this state. He has made a preliminary report in which he tells me that revenue increases aggregating about $4,000,000 can be realized by administrative reorganization of the ad valorem tax system and by revision of certain special taxes."

Martin's Proposals.
"By this administrative reorganization he suggests placing of state tax collections under one management and effecting economy through civil service of employees. He likewise suggests revising assessments procedure; the providing of a uniform co-operation license tax rate schedule on an asset basis with the present minimum tax, and approximately the present rates; the revising of our inheritance tax and revising and adding some minor tax measures probably affecting non-essentials and luxuries. He likewise recommends reworking the chain store tax as a part of his estimate in raising this revenue."

"I think we would have to eliminate the chain store tax from consideration in this behalf if we want to use the funds from it as a basis of a building fund for the eleemosynary institutions."

"Unless we can get this building fund from some other source, it seems desirable to use the chain store tax in whatever form you retain it, to furnish at least a temporary building fund for these institutions."

Revamp Machinery.
"In other words Dr. Martin would retain the present state ad valorem levy, would alter the tax assessment machinery so as to bring property on the digest now paying ad valorem tax, and secure more uniform assessment on property paying too little ad valorem tax, and a consolidation of the tax collection agencies of the state government under a tax commission with the elimination of all possible duplications and economizing at every possible point; this plus revenues of a special tax nature he says would finance the program."

"The tax committee appointed by the general assembly recommends substantially the same procedure as its preference. There will be attached to this message the report of the legislative tax committee for your information."

Call It 'Martin Plan.'
"Should you decide to adopt this method of financing the educational program I suggest that we call it for the sake of ready reference the 'Martin plan' and that you begin immediately to reorganize and revamp our present ad valorem laws and the enactment of these minor specific tax measures."

"It must be borne in mind that under the 'Martin plan' it would take a year or more for the effects of the consolidation and tightening up of the ad valorem machinery to bring in the added revenue he expects. This time element could be stepped up a bit in the course of the reorganization of the ad valorem machinery and state tax collection agencies, provision is made for quarterly payments of the ad valorem tax instead of annual payments."

Quarterly Payments.
"This also would be a convenience, in my opinion, to the taxpayers generally. I suggest that if you adopt the 'Martin plan' of financing this part of the program that you provide these quarterly payments as a part of it. While it will take time for this plan to raise the additional four to five million dollars, the two million carry over from June 30 would probably enable us to make up the immediate difference, pending full benefits from his plan."

"The other method of financing the educational system suggested by Dr. Martin and others skilled in tax revision provides that we abandon the state ad valorem tax in toto, thus taking off an additional approximately $5,000,000 taxes and substituting in lieu of the state ad valorem and to make up the additional revenue needed a gross income, a retail sales or a gross receipt tax that would raise approximately $11,000,000."

"The advantage of this alternative plan would be that the state would not be concerned with assessments of ad valorem property and this field of taxation would be left entirely with the local, county, municipal and school governments to handle, and would enable a further reduction of ad valorem tax on real estate and chattels."

"The alternative plan would provide a 'privilege' tax to reach the out-of-state owners of real estate. I have always wanted to abandon the state ad valorem tax because of the difficulty involved in securing uniform assessments not only between the counties but the taxpayers in the county."

"I have always wanted to make real estate profitable as an investment because without real estate as an attractive investment, no people can be permanently prosperous because real estate is the basis of all the wealth there is in the world."

"However, I am willing to co-operate with the general assembly in whichever of the two plans you adopt so long as sufficient money is raised to pay the present appropriation bill in full."

Asks Joint Meeting.
"I suggest that as early a time in the session as possible, at least by next week that we have a joint meeting of the ways and means committee of the house and the finance committee of the senate and invite Dr. Martin and others who have been working on this matter to appear before the committee, and try to determine which of the two plans the assembly wants to undertake. Then concentrate on that plan and discard the other plan; in other words let's decide early in the session whether or not we want to abandon the state ad valorem tax and go to some other field."

Sixth Step.
"With that question decided we can concentrate and accelerate the tax revision program. This step would be the sixth step in revising the tax program."

The sixth step will involve the most difficult procedure and the other steps in the tax revision program should be enacted in advance of the sixth step. They will be necessary regardless of which of the two alternative methods we adopt in the sixth step."

The Governor closed his speech with a review of the Tattal prison situation and a renewal of his plea for the inauguration of a state civil service plan.

He said that recommendations of judges and solicitors for changing the parole system are to be submitted later.

Detailed Report.
The Governor prefaced his discussion of taxation with a long and detailed report of the accomplishments of the administration and assembly today as well as a few remarks about changes found to be necessary after nearly a year of operation.

"We have met here to complete the work started at the last session and when we were elected by the people," he pointed out. "Our program has been overwhelmingly endorsed both by popular and county unit vote in our elections and in the general election to adopt the constitutional amendments."

"The main task before this session of the general assembly is the revision of the system of taxation so that tax relief may be granted to people now overburdened and tax responsibility placed on people now shirking it. Taxation must be made equitable and it must raise revenue to pay the appropriations still pending at the last session," the Governor said.

The state's chief executive declared that of great importance is the educational program now under way. It is proving successful both in saving the people money and in providing better educational advantages for more children.

Bought Schoolbooks.
"At our last session, the educational program under the State Board of Education was inaugurated to give free textbooks to all children and to provide a seven-month school term. We have purchased $500,000 worth of textbooks from the people, thus giving them back this amount, and we have bought 3,787,247 new books at a saving of $1,146,208. A summary of detailed savings will be supplied by the department of education."

"Our expenditures for textbooks are expected to reach $2,500,000 by the end of the year, to buy books which would have cost the people of Georgia $4,000,000 at retail prices. Therefore we will save the people $1,500,000. Future savings will be even greater. To maintain the free textbooks in the future will cost only about $1,000,000 a year. Thus, we shall save the people $3,000,000 annually on this item," Rivers asserted.

Boys, Girls Aided.
"The greatest saving in this program is our boys and girls. The department of education informs me the free textbook program put 200,000 more children in the schools who had not attended before because they had not the money to buy books."

"The minimum seven-month term is in practical operation. Our teachers are being paid reasonable salaries and paid promptly. Last year the state gave local schools $3,600,000. This year under the seven-month plan they will receive $9,256,000."

He told the legislators that a schedule of the educational expenditures showing the benefits received by each county and community will be given them for study.

The Governor said the minimum seven-month term provided by the state will save the local taxpayers the amount of taxes levied against them by the local boards in the past two extra months of school. The state heretofore gave schools only enough to operate about three months a year, he stated.

"Since the free textbooks have brought in 200,000 more children, we must look forward to increasing the number of teachers."

Ranked at Bottom.
"Georgia last year ranked at the bottom in education. But free textbooks and a guaranteed seven-month term has shoved her well up in the list with our sister states," he said.

Pointing out that Georgia last year stood at the bottom in health work as well as in education, the Governor declared the state has moved out of this "unenviable" position.

"It is axiomatic in economics that the earning power of a people is in direct ratio with the educational and health levels of the people," he asserted.

"This legislature increased the appropriation for health work this year from $100,000 to $800,000, in order to match some $400,000 in federal funds for this purpose, giving the state a $1,000,000 health program. Free treatment for diphtheria and other diseases has been provided. A campaign against venereal diseases, cancer and tuberculosis has been inaugurated," he said.

Social Security Lauded.
The Governor said the earning power of Georgia had been only half as much as the average for the United States up to this year. He predicted through the health and educational programs that earning capacity would be doubled within a few years.

Rivers said the social security program had made progress, despite the efforts of some local communities to block it.

"This program is the most difficult to administer of any the state is undertaking," he observed.

"Georgia is administering its social security more economically than any other state and at the present time is paying more social security benefits than any state with the exception of Texas, which is much larger with a greater population. Within 12 months of the time we started, we expect to have abolished the poor houses in every county except a few of the largest ones which have numerous indigent persons not eligible as yet for social security benefits," he asserted.

Change Required.
He said details of paying funds to counties for unforeseen work in compiling social security benefit records and a change in the law to eliminate the requirement of liens are to be arranged during the session.

He called the attention of the legislators also to the need for laws to enable crippled children to receive benefits, which the federal government shares. He recommended the program be expanded to give this assistance.

Governor Rivers predicted the unemployment insurance pay roll tax, which Georgians have this year paid into the federal treasury, will be repaid soon, since Georgia's unemployment insurance does not begin actual operation until January 1, 1939.

"If it is possible, we will start this payment for unemployment insurance a few months earlier than 1939," he said. He recommended the legislature amend the law to enable the payments to begin as early as July 1, 1938.

Highway Patrol.
The highway patrol is operating so well and has been so well received by the people that the Governor recommended it be increased from the present 80 men to its full staff strength of 120. The patrol is paying its way with receipts from divers' licenses, he said.

The Governor's address was broadcast to the state over radio stations WSB and WAGA. He spoke for 2 hours and 10 minutes. In closing he said that from time to time he will address additional messages to the assembly on matters to come before it.

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches, people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are a nature relief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Continued From First Page.

would be abandoned and licenses would be issued on a weight basis, beginning with a flat $1.50 tag for private passenger cars weighing up to 2,500 pounds, and charging $1 for each additional 500 pounds.

Approximately $2,000,000 diverted from the state highway department by legislative acts during 1935 and 1936 would be repaid under the Gross bill, as would some $961,000 diverted from this department during the two years by the executive orders of former Governor Talmadge. This includes $144,000 spent for the upkeep of the military department during the Talmadge regime.

Representative Gross provided in his bill that as much revenue as was received from sale of the $3 tag in 1936 should go to the highway department for state aid roads, and all above that amount would be applied to the repayment of the diverted money. When this is fully repaid, the excess would go to the rural post road system.

Truck Licenses.

Gross' schedule of truck and trailer licenses starts at the low of $2.50 a year for a privately owned truck weighing under one-ton and ranges upward to $2,000 for each truck or non-passenger-carrying vehicle weighing over nine tons. Truck trailers not used as or in connection with common or contract carriers would be taxed from $2.50 for one under 1,000 pounds up to $1,000 for a 10,000-pound one.

Licenses for trucks or trailers not equipped with pneumatic tires would be exactly doubled if the legislature adopts Gross' bill.

Following are schedules of proposed licenses: For each truck that is not used as a common or contract carrier these fees: Under one ton, $2.50; one ton, $5; one and one-half tons, $10; two tons, $20; two and one-half tons, $37.50; three tons, $50; three and one-half tons, $100; four tons, $125; five tons, $150; six tons, $200; seven tons, $350; eight tons, $500; nine tons, $750; ten tons and over, $1,000.

Truck trailers or semi-trailers not used as common or contract carriers; under 1,000 pounds, $2.50; from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds, $5; from 1,500 to 3,000 pounds, $7.50; from 3,000 to 4,000 pounds, $10; from 4,000 to 5,000 pounds, $12.50; from 5,000 to 6,000 pounds, $15; from 6,000 to 7,000 pounds, $17.50; from 7,000 to 8,000 pounds, $20; from 8,000 to 9,000 pounds, $22.50; from 9,000 to 10,000 pounds, $25; and those over 10,000 pounds, $1,000.

Gross' schedule provides a weight license on passenger-carrying motor vehicles.

Passenger Carriers.

This is his proposed rate: For each vehicle weighing 10,000 pounds or less, the charge would be $1.25 per 100 pounds; for those more than 10,000 but less than 15,000 pounds, the license would be $2 per 100 pounds; over 15,000 and under 25,000 pounds, the charge would be $2.50 per 100 pounds; while the tax on those over 25,000 pounds would be based on a charge of $5 per 100 pounds.

Trucks used as common or contract carriers would have this rate: Under one ton, $5; one ton, $15; one and one-half tons, $25; two tons, $50; two and one-half tons, $75; three tons, $100; three and one-half tons, $200; four tons, $300; five tons, $400; six tons, $750; seven tons, $1,000; eight tons, $1,250, and nine and all over, $2,000. For truck trailers used in the same way, his rate is: Under 1,000 pounds, $5; from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds, $10; from 1,500 to 3,000 pounds, $15; from 3,000 to 4,000 pounds, $20; from 4,000 to 5,000 pounds, $25; from 5,000 to 6,000 pounds, $30; from 6,000 to 7,000 pounds, $35; from 7,000 to 8,000 pounds, $40; from 8,000 to 9,000 pounds, $45; from 9,000 to 10,000 pounds, $50, while over 10,000 pounds the charge would be $1,500.

Passenger trailers used with common or contract carriers would pay $1.50 if weighing less than 2,000 pounds, and $10 for each additional 500 pounds.

Other passenger trailers would pay $1 for less than 1,000 pounds in weight, and all above 1,000 pounds would pay a flat $5. Hearses and ambulances would be charged $1.50 for the first 2,500 pounds and $1 for each 500 pounds more.

The bill provides that half rates will apply after July 1 of each year.

QUEZON FACES OPERATION. MANILA, P. I., Tuesday, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Manuel Quezon, President of the Philippine commonwealth, will undergo an appendectomy today. Quezon entered a hospital yesterday after cancelling all engagements.

Boone was unopposed for clerk. P. T. McCutcheon Jr., of Franklin, withdrew from the race shortly before the session opened. The new clerk was placed in nomination by Representative Moore, of Baldwin county. After his election the new clerk expressed his gratification and immediately went to work.

Two New Senators. The two new senators are Ralph Turner, of McDonough, and Gilbert Robinson, of Montezuma. The latter succeeds Dr. C. A. Greer, who resigned. Everett Millican, of Atlanta, who formerly represented the 35th district, also was sworn in to represent the new Fulton county, or 52nd, district. The senators were given their oaths of office by Judge Jule W. Felton, of the court of appeals.

In the house E. E. Johnson, of Chattahoochee county, was sworn in to succeed Dr. Charles Howard and R. E. L. Culpepper succeeded D. B. Baggs, of Mitchell county. Both Dr. Howard and Mr. Baggs died since the regular session. The representatives were given their oaths by Judge John B. Guerry, also of the court of appeals.

ATLANTAN NAMED IN GIRL'S LOVE SUIT

Lawson Steven Finch Jr.,
Young Broker, Sued for $100,000.

A New York night club hat check girl, who declared her happiness "blighted and ruined" when a young Atlanta broker failed to take a scheduled trip to the altar with her, yesterday filed a $100,000 breach of promise suit against the object of her affections, Lawson Steven Finch Jr., treasurer of the Finch Investment Company here.

Marie Myrtle Provost, the 23-year-old blond beauty from New York, said Finch won her love, set the date for their marriage, then failed to appear and wouldn't speak to her when she quit her job and came to Atlanta two weeks ago to find him.

Meanwhile, J. D. Tindall, counsel for the 30-year-old stock broker, said his client's answer to the suit would be a general denial of Miss Provost's charges.

On the other hand, F. Lee Evans and Alton T. Milam, attorneys for Miss Provost, said there was the matter of several letters in which Finch expressed his love for her in ardent fashion and called her "Angel Pie."

These letters will be introduced when the case comes to trial in Fulton superior court in January, they said.

The romance between the young broker and the hat check girl began when she met him in the Majestic Night Club, at Fifty-third and Broadway, in New York last February, according to her petition.

He was "nice" to her, a "gentleman in every respect," and after four or five dates with her, professed his love and called her endearing names, Miss Provost set out.

Romance Blossoms. Their romance blossomed and when Finch returned to Atlanta after his first trip he wrote her as many as five letters a week in which he "reiterated his love," the petition alleges, and "always ended with protestations of deep affection."

Several trips back and forth from Atlanta to New York followed for Finch and she fell "desperately in love" with him, Miss Provost said.

On his second trip, he remained in New York six weeks and she had "dates" with him every night, according to the petition. Then came April 30 and he asked her to be his wife and set the wedding date for September 1, Miss Provost contends.

He returned to New York a third time in June and told her to rent an apartment and make all the marital arrangements, but warned her they would have to "live as cheaply as possible" for a while and that he was "closing a business deal" in Atlanta, Miss Provost charged. She said she told him she was ready to marry him whether he had any money or not.

Ardor Cooled. But then it appeared that Finch's ardor was cooling. He failed to appear in New York August 15, the date he was to join her, according to the petition. He finally arrived in New York September 8, called her and told her he would meet her with her father the next day and make the final arrangements for the wedding.

The next day he failed to show up, however, and when she called his hotel, he had checked out, Miss Provost charged, adding that she had not seen him since until she came to Atlanta recently. But when they met, he refused to speak to her, she said.

Before she met Finch, Miss Provost said she had seldom gone with men and that after he came to New York she gave up all "dates" with other men and remained "true" to him.

When he left her virtually standing at the altar, she was embarrassed before her friends, her happiness was "blighted" and she became so disillusioned that her health was impaired, she charged in her petition.

Rivers Credits Health Program With 1,906 Lives

The expanded program of public health authorized by the general assembly in its regular session has resulted in a saving of 1,906 lives, Governor Rivers told the legislature in his message yesterday.

The chief executive read statistics from the State Department of Public Health showing the results of the program.

The report read by the Governor follows:

The vital statistics records show that the death rates of the following diseases were decreased in 1937, as compared with 1936, as follows:

All causes	8.6
Typhoid	19.9
Malaria	39.0
Diphtheria	10.0
Tuberculosis (all forms)	18.9
Pellagra	5.5
Dysentery	18.9
Influenza	28.7
Pneumonia	25.6
Meningococcus meningitis	44.2
Infant mortality	5.7
Maternal mortality	4.4

Total deaths for eight months of 1937 was 23,821. For the same period of 1936 the total was 24,915. Lives saved, 1,906.

"FOUR ACES" WIN. NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—(P)—The "Four Aces" won the Vanderbilt cup, blue ribbon bridge award, by defeating a team tonight led by Harold S. Vanderbilt. The margin of victory was 4,080 points in the 72-board championship match.

This Iron-Nerved Speed Driver Is In His 40th Year

AT Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah—on October 28, 1937—Captain George E. T. Eyston in his racing car Thunderbolt reached a speed of 309.6 miles an hour. No one before ever traveled this fast on land.

The time made by the Thunderbolt is absolutely authentic—but due to a technicality it missed becoming an official record.

Captain Eyston's sensation was buoyancy, as he made his terrific speed. "I had no fear," he said. "Visibility was good. The car steered perfectly."

40 Is Not "OLD" for Speed Drivers

One of the most famous automobile speed drivers in the world today is 52. Another man over 50 still holds speed boat records. Others have broken records, in cars and boats, at an age advanced enough to prove nerve does not necessarily belong to the young.

Captain Eyston has every intention of continuing to seek speed records for years. He has a second racing car, Speed of the Wind. With it he has broken the 12-hour World's Record.

Of course, few men need the extraordinary stamina of the speed driver. But you must have a certain share of it—to be successful in whatever kind of work you choose to do after you have passed 40.

William Friel
Nerves Steady Now

Dear Life Begins:

I've been a streetcar motorman for over 25 years. Driving through heavy traffic and watching the rearview mirror while taking fares and answering questions—it calls for steady nerves.

Some time ago I found I was worn out at the end of my work, nervous and cross. I was afraid of missing a traffic signal, having an accident to spoil my record and getting my pay docked. I got myself into such a state worrying that one day my wife said I ought to try Fleischmann's Yeast, which had helped her.

So I began eating it every day. I soon found it was helping build up my energy. I didn't get so tired as before. My jittery nerves responded, too, and I didn't get irritable any more.

I still eat Fleischmann's Yeast and today, at 46, even at the end of the long 9-hour stretch I sometimes have, I go home feeling full of pep and happy, with no more worries about my job.

Not tired any more

Dear Life Begins:

When I was nearly 40, my husband met with business troubles. To give him a helping hand, I became a hostess in a bridge club.

Standing on my feet for hours exhausted me. A hostess has to be gracious, above all, and I was becoming nervous and irritable. I was afraid of offending some of the club members—and there were plenty of people waiting to step into my job.

Then I heard about Fleischmann's Yeast and started eating it regularly. I found it was helping my tired, high-strung condition marvelously. My strength came back and began to make me feel fine again.

Now I can be gracious and amiable on my job from one o'clock in the afternoon until midnight.

With my new lease on life, I've built up a very good 'following' and feel very happy and secure in my job.

Dear Life Begins:

I am a public accountant, 50 years of age. A while ago, I found my previous good health leaving me. I was extremely nervous and tired, and my skin was broken out from indigestion. I had to give up two good positions on account of poor health. I knew I should do something to help my condition, and when I read about Fleischmann's Yeast I decided to try it.

After a few weeks I began to notice a difference. My indigestion went away, and as I continued eating the yeast, the skin trouble began to disappear. My general health improved and I had no more nervousness.

With my new fund of energy and ambition, I am able to continue my accounting work with increased confidence. I feel full of pep and 10 years younger.

Digestion May Show First Sign of Weakness As You Grow Older

If you are past 40 and feel that you are slipping—losing ground instead of gaining it—you should look to your health. Poor health after 40 is often due to a digestive change—the lessening and weakening of the gastric flow which slows down the process of digestion.

By strengthening the gastric juices and stimulating them to a fuller flow, it is often quite easy to improve the health of your whole body. Men and women over 40 have especially good success with Fleischmann's Yeast because it provides just this digestive help and stimulation.

Besides bringing about a quicker, stronger flow of the digestive juices, Fleischmann's Yeast has another tonic action in the system. It has a generous supply of 4 vitamins. As their popular names imply, each has a special and vital function, either in building or protecting your health. They are the NERVE VITAMIN, the COLD-RESISTANCE VITAMIN, the BONE VITAMIN and the VITALITY VITAMIN.

Begin eating Fleischmann's Yeast 3 times every day—plain or in a little water. The proper time is important—½ hour before meals, so that the extra flow of digestive juices will be ready to digest the food you eat. Find out how much brighter life seems when health and energy return.

$25 WILL BE PAID FOR LETTERS of success after 40—so helpful to others we wish to print them. If you can truly credit to Fleischmann's Yeast some part of the health that made your success possible—write us—enclosing your picture. (Letters and pictures cannot be returned.) ## Mrs. Alfred Swann's 75th Birthday To Bring Members of Family Here

By Sally Forth.

MEMBERS of Mrs. Alfred R. Swann's family will assemble in Atlanta this week end to pay tribute to their mother, who celebrates her seventy-fifth birthday Saturday. Mrs. Swann, who resides in Dandridge, Tenn., is visiting her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James S. Floyd, who will entertain at the week-end family house party honoring their mother.

Mrs. Swann's sons and daughters coming to Atlanta for the auspicious occasion are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Swann, of Dandridge; Mr. and Mrs. James T. Swann, of Tampa, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Claude H. Estes, of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Lamar Rankin, of Jefferson City, Tenn.; Mrs. W. Barrett Taylor, Tampa, Fla., and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Swann, of Winter Haven, Fla.

On Friday evening the Floyds will entertain at dinner for their guests and on Saturday morning Mr. and Mrs. Emory Cooke will be hosts at a breakfast at their Valley road home in compliment to their parent's guests. Mrs. Cooke, as you know, is the former Frances Floyd, and the adored granddaughter of Mrs. Swann.

Around a festive board Mrs. Swann and her family will gather Saturday evening for the birthday dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd as hosts. Sally hears that the Floyds have not omitted a single detail that will make their mother's seventy-fifth birthday party an unforgettable occasion, but because she is pledged to secrecy she cannot divulge the many surprises planned to make the occasion a gay and happy affair.

Mrs. Swann is a charming representative of southern aristocracy. For generations her family has resided in Tennessee and the Swann estate at Dandridge, near Knoxville, boasts of one of the state's oldest colonial homes, overlooking the French Broad river and surrounded by thousands of wooded acres. Mrs. Swann divides her time between Dandridge and Tampa, Fla., where she maintains a winter home. During frequent visits made to

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd, Mrs. Swann has endeared herself to many Atlantans who will join with friends throughout the south on Saturday in wishing her a "happy birthday."

HAVE you heard the latest more-than-a-rumor? He is a tall and attractive blond Atlantan. She is a stunning and vivacious brunette Augustan. He finished his education with a business administration course at Harvard. She has visited his parents here many times since the affianced pair met, and Sally hears that the Sunday engagement announcement will be the culmination to a love-at-first-sight romance. Want another clue? His family residence is in Druid Hills.

THE college set will be enlivened this week end by the presence of Fay Frederick, of Seattle, Wash., who arrives Friday to visit her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Paulin, at their home on Andrews drive. Fay will be among the admired figures attending the various Thanksgiving festivities, including the Chi Phi dance Friday and the Tech-Georgia game Saturday. Although her home address is far-off Seattle, Fay now attends the University of Georgia and is a member of the Junior class. She visited here for the first time last year while a student at Vassar College and was so thrilled and impressed by Georgia that she left the famous eastern women's college after two years' enrollment there and matriculated this year at the state university. She has a wide circle of friends here who will extend her a cordial welcome during her forthcoming visit.

Benefit Bridge.

Colonial Dames of XVII Century Name Mrs. John S. Adams President

Mrs. John S. Adams, of Dublin, was elected president of the Georgia Society, Colonial Dames of XVII Century at the annual meeting held recently. Other officers elected to serve with Mrs. Adams were Mrs. W. C. Carpenter, Atlanta, vice president; Mrs. John M. Simmons, Bainbridge, second vice president; Mrs. Moreland Speer, Atlanta, third vice president; Mrs. Mark Smith, Thomaston, recording secretary; Mrs. W. W. Clarke, Commerce, corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. Noel Murray, Columbus, treasurer; Mrs. C. D. Tebo, Atlanta, registrar; Mrs. Kirby Smith Anderson, Madison, historian; Mrs. John E. Lane, Jackson, librarian; Mrs. Arthur M. Allen, Atlanta, curator; Mrs. William E. Mann, Dalton, chaplain; Mrs. Frank A. Dennis, Eatonton, parliamentarian; Mrs. Edgar Gunn, Atlanta, auditor.

The board members are: Mrs. Edward Caldwell, Monroe; Mrs. R. H. Richard, Madison; Mrs. W. W. Capps, Athens; Mrs. A. R. McMillan, Atlanta; Mrs. John M. Slaton, Atlanta; Mrs. Arthur McD. Wilson Jr., Atlanta; Mrs. Mildred V. Rhodes, Athens; Mrs. Ellis D. Robb, Atlanta.

Mrs. Ellis D. Robb, Mrs. Mildred V. Rhodes and Mrs. J. N. Bateman served as the nominating committee. The board meeting was followed by a luncheon, with Mrs. Moreland Speer as chairman. Yellow and blue flowers formed the decorations, and figures in colonial costume marked each place.

Mrs. John M. Slaton, president, presided. Splendid reports were made by the officers and chairmen. Mrs. C. D. Tebo reported a half scholarship at Washington Seminary awarded to Bobby Whitman and the Ruby Durden Buttrill prize of $10 to be given for the best essay on colonial history at Washington Seminary. Mrs. Kirby Smith Anderson announced that 565 Bible and cemetery records had been collected. Mrs. Edwin McKenzie presented a copy of Burke's Peerage to the society in honor of the splendid work of Mrs. John M. Slaton. Mrs. Anderson dedicated her book of records to Mrs. Aurelia Roach McMillan, historian general in the national society. It was voted to have a letter sent John B. Wilson, secretary of state, asking for an additional helper at Rhodes Memorial hall.

Present were Mesdames John M. Slaton, Aurelia R. McMillan, Thomas H. Buttrill, John S. Adams, Moreland Speer, W. W. Clarke, John E. Lane, W. C. Carpenter, C. D. Tebo, Ellis D. Robb, Mildred V. ### Gifford-McComack.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Loretta Gifford to Lloyd A. McComack, which was quietly solemnized November 14 in the rectory of Sacred Heart church. Rev. Father Emmerth officiated.

The bride wore a three-piece suit of Wallis blue wool; the top coat featuring a white fur collar. Her accessories were navy blue and a shoulder cluster of orchids completed her costume.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Gifford, of Meridian, Miss., and a sister of Martin Gifford of this city.

Mr. McComack is southeastern district manager for Hoffman Machinery Company, with headquarters in Atlanta. He and his bride left by motor for Miami, Fla., and will go by plane from Miami to Havana, Cuba. Upon their return they will reside at their home on Lake Shore drive.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

My quick temper, sharp tongue and restless spirit are always getting me into scrapes that are comic and pathetic. My life is a series of ups and downs and I'm no baby either, being 18. My parents are strict, and interfere with all my ambitions. I haven't the opportunity to read, have friends in, go riding, or attend parties. To be perfectly frank, I have no privileges. The only freedom I have is to steal and usually they catch me and give me hell. This doesn't matter much for I love a certain guy and am playing safe to get him. Maybe you think I am wrong but when a gal loves a guy and expects to marry him and her parents don't even allow her to see him, what can she do? There's one boy they approve of but it happens that I don't like him. Won't you help me.

Answer:

Sister, admitting a quick temper, sharp tongue, restless spirit and reckless disregard of your parents' wishes, my suggestion is that you put yourself through a little course in self-discipline. When you have learned to control your temper and your tongue, when you have tamed yourself you will be in a better position to appeal to your parents for privileges. Under present conditions they would be foolish indeed to give you the rope, knowing as they do, that you would hang yourself. Ball one.

Don't kid yourself either about playing safe to get any guy when you meet him on the sly in direct disobedience to your parents' commands. This in itself will relieve him of any sense of responsibility to them, which sense of responsibility is very necessary to a safe and sane association with you. Furthermore while he may be pleased and flattered that you will take such chances to be with him, the clandestine meetings don't raise your stock with him. It's none too high now or he wouldn't connive with you to deceive your parents. Ball two.

One other little matter that's worth considering. A girl's expecting to marry a boy doesn't necessarily mean that he's expecting to marry her. If he's young, still in school, or even if he's got his first job there will be a long stretch for him to do before he can commit matrimony and in the meantime the girl had better be looking around for some other beaux—in case he doesn't come through as expected. Ball three.

You and all the foolish virgins who think your parents are unreasonable, aren't as wise as you think you are. Fathers and mothers (almost invariably) want their daughters to have a good time, and eventually to make good marriage matches but they know some things the youngsters don't. And they want to surround their youngsters with all sorts of safeguards until the youngsters have judgment enough to distinguish between a slick-haired sheik with a fascinating line and an honest-to-goodness boy who's sober, industrious and capable of making a girl a good husband.

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Dear Miss Chatfield: My 17-year-old daughter looks to me for advice and since I don't know what is the right thing to say I pass the problem over to you. During the summer she met a young man who was very attentive to her. Then all of a sudden she heard nothing from him for some time. She was so mortified that she stayed at home for weeks. Then she met a young man several years older who asked her to keep steady company. Number one hearing that my daughter had other irons in the fire came running back, making love to her and telling her what she meant to him. By this time she had taken his absence to mean that he wasn't interested. She likes No. 1 much better than No. 2 and No. 2 being very jealous, she has some trouble keeping him contented. She would have me tell her which one to hold on to.

MRS. M. M.

Answer:

She should hold on to both of them, of course, as friends, not as suitors. Certainly she is too young to think of marriage and the likelihood is that neither of the beaux is ready to discuss the subject seriously. Why should she tie herself up with either of them. She doesn't have to declare herself. She has merely to tell each of them that she likes him, enjoys him and values his friendship. The fact that each of them knows he has a rival will make him stand on his toes to win. This is the sort of competition that gives zest to the love game, insures a girl's having a good time and leaves her free to make a wise choice of a husband when that time arrives.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

THE HABIT OF READING IN BED.

From the depth of his depravity a correspondent asks for an article on reading in bed, and complains that after 30 minutes of it his eyes become so tired he can no longer read. The reading lamp in back of him has a 75-watt blue bulb and he wonders whether there are new reading glasses that might correct that condition. W. K. Mark Twain, according to his biographer, not only read in bed but did a great deal of his writing there. I never quite believed it though. I suspect Mr. Clemens pretended that was his custom when he got caught lying abed by an occasional early noonday visitor who couldn't be excluded—say a publisher or an editor or one of his wealthy in-laws. Disimulation of that sort would be justifiable, wouldn't it? Two species of fowl will be rigidly barred from the Elysian bowling greens, I hope: birds that prate about their daily bathing and tooth brushing and early rising dailies. I mean the pests who insist on being up and noisily doing before the host or the community ordinary wakens.

An hour or possibly two hours should be the limit of night reading or study for any one whose occupation is not a good reading. This is rather a strain on the eyes. One who does honest work, especially outdoor work, or one who gets a fair amount of open air exercise daily, may read for perhaps three hours in the evening without excessive fatigue.

The light described by the correspondent is not a good reading light. Such blue light is trying to the eyes. Better a frosted or opal bulb of not over 60 watts in an adjustable lamp three or four feet above the reading page. This lamp should not be under a dark dome or shade. If it has any dome or shade it should be yellowish or translucent white—to shed part of the light on the surroundings. Reading in a spotlight in a darkened room is more tiring than reading in a softly illuminated room.

Main objection to reading in bed is the difficulty of illuminating the page. Whatever position the reader is in, the source of illumination must always be behind the plane of vision. If the reader is in the recumbent posture the lamp should be close to the floor, not on the head of the bed. Most persons who read in bed really read sit on their toes. This is the most comfortable reading chair imaginable. Indispensable adjuncts of reading in bed are a couple of efficient nurses or attendants to take turns adjusting the bed and the occupant, at five-minute intervals, to prevent cramps and subluxations.

Daytime reading in bed requires that the bed be placed with head next the window or between two windows, so that the daylight coming through the windows will not glare in the patient's eyes. To those who are not confined to bed, I would suggest that everything be made ready, and the reading done in a comfortable chair. Then when zero hour comes, roll into bed and go into your belly breathing. Chances are you'll never remember whether you finished the sixth inflation.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Contour. Three months ago had eye tooth extracted. Tooth on either side of it had been out a long time. Now I am worried because my face has sunk so on that side. (I. Y.) Answer—You should have an artificial tooth or denture installed immediately after extraction of one or more teeth.

Multiple Neuritis. Son confined to bed and unable to use his limbs from alcohol neuritis, three months standing. (Mrs. W. W. S.)

Answer—See that he receives daily four or five ounces of wheat germ, in one recipe or another. It may be mixed in with flour, half and half, in any recipe calling for flour. Extreme deprivation of vitamin B (while on drinking part of the diet and taking little or no food) is the cause of alcoholic neuritis. Wheat germ richest food source of vitamin B. Brewer's yeast dried is still richer source.

Officers Installed.

Installation of officers was held by the Ladies' Auxiliary Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 390. The following were installed: President, Mrs. Bertha Gossitt; senior vice president, Mrs. Helen Vocals; junior vice president, Mrs. Ida Kenny; secretary, Mrs. Lucille Irvine; treasurer, Mrs. Mary Self; conducting, Mrs. Sally Whiddon; musician, Mrs. Eula Finch.

Rabun Gap Guild.

Officers of the Rabun Gap-Nacoochee Guild met recently to make plans for the coming year. The forming of a new set of by-laws was discussed and it was decided that group leaders should be appointed.

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

Lillian Mae Styles

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sunday—There is nothing southern about Memphis. The climate was cold and snappy yesterday and made one move quickly. In order to do just a few of the things that were suggested to me, all of which I would have liked to do, I had to move quickly.

Having picked up a large batch of mail from Washington in St. Louis last night, Mrs. Scheider and I spent no idle moments. From the time we had seen the committee of ladies about last night's lecture and were interviewed by the press until lunch was brought in at 1:15, we were very busy.

At 1:45 I started for Judge Camille Kelly's juvenile court. There was no session today, but I have always wanted to see where this only woman judge of a juvenile court in the south presided. It is a cheerful, homelike building and one where I imagine a woman like Judge Kelly can do the kind of work she thinks should be done to save the youth of this country from slipping down grade.

From there we went to the crippled children's hospital, a charming, light, bright building. There is a lovely garden at the back and another hospital for adults just across the children's playground. "Adults" means anyone over 14. My little friend, Bobby Holland, with his mother beside him, sat up in his bed in the boys' ward. He will soon have his brace off and be able to go home. He has spent six months in this hospital and speaks well for him that every one who sees him.

Then we went to the county penal farm. This is certainly a model farm and I have seen nothing like it in any other country. It is a model state institution on a smaller scale. There are separate buildings for men and women and there is work provided for everyone. The big farm with its wonderful herd of Jersey cows provides much of the food which seems to be very good.

I wanted to play with all the calves. They were so attractive. They finally let me name one after myself because I had admired her mother.

The county hospital, which is really the home for the indigent aged, we did not visit. But it also looked like a model institution. On the way back we stopped at a negro school built by WPA labor. There the N. Y. A. youngsters carried out a garden and canning project for the benefit of their school lunches. It would have done credit to any county 4-H club. A glimpse at the house of their work, and here endeth a full afternoon.

A speech last night and at 7 o'clock this morning we left for Pickwick Dam.

Atlanta Debutantes Via Personality Route

By BERNICE DENTON PIERSON, Eminent Astrologer and Analyst.

ISABEL BOYKIN.

A personality chart of debutante Isabel Boykin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Boykin, shows one of scientific tastes, a forward and dependable. The chart shows one not easily discouraged, but a logical thinker, whose ideas are concrete and well-defined.

She has an unusual sense of justice, a high sense of honor, originality, good taste and refinement.

There is energy and enthusiasm, animation, quickness and imagination.

The chart shows spirituality and refinement, a sense of humor and fluency of thought well marked.

The tremendous energy which the chart reveals shows sincerity and a generous nature, together with simplicity and modest tastes.

If you are interested in securing a partner, a part of your chart, fill in the coupon below, and Mrs. Pierson will be glad to send it to you.

Your Figure, Madam

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

ROCKING CHAIR AND DESK CHAIR CREATE THE SAME FIGURE PROBLEM.

Down in Washington it is known as the government spread; in office circles it is called the stenographer's spread; executives acquire a desk chair spread, and housewives complain of a middle aged spread.

It has been estimated that the average person sits 14 hours a day. If you sit only eight hours a day the hips can expand at the rate of one and one-half inches a year—and that's no exaggeration!

You cannot have a good figure unless the hips are in proportion to your other measurements. If you have a 34-inch bust and 36-inch hips, congratulations! But a 34-inch bust and 40-inch hips... see the difference?

The hips are the measurements usually responsible for your clothes trouble. A dress that fits to perfection through the shoulders and waist will be too snug through the hips. As long as you can have the dress raised at the waist to give that extra bit of hip room your figure is not greatly out of proportion, but if your hips demand a whole size larger before the clock eases on it is time you exercise.

INSTALLMENT XXVI.

Her announcement that she and Bob were to be married soon he recognized for what it was—pique, anger, the quick riposte of a woman who thought herself betrayed. In vain had he tried to explain to her how it happened he had kissed Fortuna that night; how the woman's declaration of love, made when she was in great pain and full of fear, could not possibly have any significance. April would not hear him. She adopted an attitude of cold detachment that was a barrier he could not scale. She devoted herself to Bob, much to that young man's surprise and pleasure, and even the efforts of Sally, who was in sympathy with Gil, brought no results. Definitely, April was through with Gilbert Ferris.

Gil's first reaction had been to take the next plane for New York, to leave the whole unpleasant potpourri of murder, intrigue, jealousy, distrust and thwarted love, far, far behind—to take up once again the calm, sensible life which had been his before the fateful day Mort had died and left him a legacy of trouble.

Yet, some obscure quirk made him discard that easy way out. He had had his chance, long ago, to toss in the sponge, but he had stuck because—well, if truth were to be confessed—because of April. Now that April was done with him, he was going to stick anyway, if only for the satisfaction of seeing the game through.

Not for a moment would he admit to himself there still existed some faint hope he might be able once again to pierce her antipathy. They were done. He had loved, and lost. He had loved unloved, of course—for he had known all along that April was still in love with Mort. He had been willing to gamble on the possibility that he could some day win her away from the ghost of the past, but fate had decreed otherwise. Nothing but malign destiny, indeed, could have engineered the unfortunate series of events which had led to this last final breach.

"I'll see it through, though," he said, doggedly, a hundred times a day. "Then, when I've proved that Boorma is back of the whole ghastly business, and found out what it was Mort knew that seems to be so valuable, I'll turn the estate over to Fortuna and clear out."

April would be Mrs. Robert Ainsly Morrison III, by then. A woman of high position, the wife of a noted sportsman, yachtsman and patron of the arts. While he, Gil, would be just a young engineer, out of a job and broke.

It had irked him immeasurably at first, that he was exiled in Key West with the slowly recovering Fortuna. Then, one day, he realized that through her it might be possible to continue his own investigation of the problem that concerned them all. Boorma, it was certain, was the man responsible for Stephen's murder, for the kidnapping of April, for the theft of the strong box. Hadn't he seen Boorma trying to break into Mort's room, the very first night the big man had stayed at Hurricane House? And hadn't "Giggles" before he died, gasped out words which could mean only that Boorma was the man Gil should watch? Even April, for that matter, had said from the beginning that Boorma was Mort's enemy. Every detail fitted in.

And Boorma had been a close friend of Fortuna. Where a better place, then, to continue his investigation than right here questioning Fortuna?

But deriving information from a woman was not so simple. Lan-gued, bored with her slow convalescence, she wanted only words of sympathy, terms of affection from him.

"I cannot understand, Gilbert," she would complain, "why you talk so much about Walter, and this 'mystery,' as you call it. Why do you concern yourself? Your brother is dead, nothing can be done for him now. But we—you and I—we are living. Let us live and be content, not dwell on morbid things!" She said her thin-fingered, delicately perfumed hand on his cheek. "We could be so happy, you and I, if you would," she murmured.

This lack of progress made Gil restless. Further, he did not relish being alone—but for servants—with Fortuna. The woman still, at intervals, exercised a strange fascination for him, and the intimacy which was inevitable was too easily accepted. He found himself acting, moving, speaking—even thinking—in terms of Fortuna. There were times when he told himself that if it were not for her he would have been able to solve everything long ago, and hated her.

On other occasions he found himself wondering if Ronnie had not had ulterior motives in asking him to stay in this sleepy little town with Fortuna. Knowing Gil did not approve the line of investigation he was following, Ronnie might have seized the unfortunate shooting as a means of keeping Gil out of his way while he continued along the lines he had chosen.

If only Fortuna would mend quickly, so they could get back to Miami and find out what was going on! Thus far, he had been left in the dark about developments. Ronnie's letters were noncommittal; he and Dr. Woodrow were making progress toward translation of the manuscript, but it was a long, arduous task. Sally wrote now and then, but her letters were mostly gossip of the town and held little of real interest.

From April he had but one communication. A polite note expressing the hope Mrs. Ferris would soon be well again.

In a word, Gil thought, he was as much out of things as though he were on the moon.

To make matters worse just when it seemed Fortuna was making rapid strides toward recovery—she wound in her side healing nicely—she came down with an attack of dengue fever, and went back to bed under the care of a physician for another two weeks.

Slowly the hot, brilliant days crawled by. Gil literally lost track of time. Life was an endless procession of eating, sleeping and listening to Fortuna's soft, drugging voice. He felt like a lotus-eater, wrung dry of ambition, will, initiative. And though he realized he was coming more and more to let the woman guide his thoughts, he could not muster enough strength to fight against it.

"I'm not like a man in a dream," he said to her, one day, as they lolled in the shade and sipped cooling drinks. "I've read about the tropics 'getting one' but I didn't realize it was like this."

"What matter?" Fortuna cooed, turning to look at him fondly. "I could stay here with you, like this, forever. We were meant to be like this, Gilbert, you and I. Happy, indolent and content." She touched his hand. "There is only one thing missing..."

"Is there?" he murmured drowsily.

"You are fond of me," she said, softly. "And I... I am more than fond of you, Gilbert. With the money and property Morton left me... I mean us... we could be happy without worry for the rest of our lives."

He opened his eyes slowly, grinned a little. "My dear," he said, "you flatter me. That's a proposal, isn't it? And the first time I've ever had a woman propose to me." Then he stood up, and was surprised to find himself shaking. "But the answer, Fortuna, is no. I don't want any woman. I'm all washed up with women. They're a jealous, illogical, foolish lot, all of them!"

She did not get angry. Instead, she laughed gently.

"Women like that shallow Conway girl, perhaps. But I am a woman of experience, my Gilbert, and you need me. You know you need me. You think, perhaps, you were once in love with that girl... but you were not. You don't know what love is. Only I can show you." She leaned forward, her lips half parted, her eyes shining.

Gil turned without a word and stalked into the house. If he didn't soon get away from here he'd be cracking under her subtle influence.

But it was not until the middle of July—the hot, moist July of Florida's lower keys—that Fortuna was well enough to move about and endure the trip back to the mainland. Even then she agreed to the return only when Gil told her bluntly he thought she was pampering herself, was becoming a hypochondriac.

What he did not tell her, though he was not sure his inner excitement did not give him away, was that he had at last received a letter from April containing real news. It read:

"Ronnie and Dr. Woodrow believe they have found the key to the manuscript. They're not certain yet what it will reveal, but I think you should come back immediately. Surely Mrs. Ferris is well enough to leave by this time, unless, of course, she prefers to remain until you return to her."

The significance of the last phrase made Gil grit his teeth. April could be wretchedly cruel when she wanted to!

Yet the thought that excited him most—and this he would not admit except in rare moments of courageous self-analysis—was not so much the fact that the mystery might be on the verge of solution, as that he would see and talk with April again.

However, the letter he sent in answer was coldly polite, precise, restrained.

And April, reading it in the solarium of Morinda Eggleston's Miami home, next day, quickly brushed away tears which dropped onto the page that bore his handwriting.

Bob Morrison, ruddy from a game of polo at Flamingo field, found her there. Looked suspiciously at the moisture on her cheeks.

"Bad news?" he asked, kissing her forehead.

"No," she smiled, "good news, really."

All day April had been looking forward to this moment, but now it had arrived she was afraid. They were seated in Mort's room, surrounded by the confusion of books, papers and other paraphernalia Dr. Woodrow and Ronnie had employed during their travel of translation—April ensconced in a great leather chair that had been Mort's favorite; Bob leaning against the wall, a sea by a bored nonparticipant; Ronnie, hollow-eyed from lack of sleep, still pouring over the manuscript in a last-minute scrutiny, with Sally peering over his shoulder, and Dr. Ainsly Woodrow dozing on a divan nearby. Gil had not yet arrived.

Gil's arrival was what April feared. She was afraid of the way she might look, and speak. It had been so long since she had seen him, so long since that night in Key West when a few short moments after his declaration of love for her—she had learned where his affections really lay—with Fortuna. Now, though she still knew there was no room in his heart for her, she could not be sure she would hear a few words or gesture a little of the heartache that had been hers since that night. Her pride, buffeted too much since Mort died, rebelled against a display.

THE FRENCH CAPITAL CITY.

Paris, France: One of the sights I saw soon after reaching Paris was Eiffel tower. It would be hard to miss seeing the tower when traveling from one part of the city to another.

Eiffel tower is the tallest building in Europe—in fact, the tallest anywhere outside New York city. It rises to a height of 984 feet and was built 48 years ago.

Fireworks display at Eiffel tower.

Now a great fair is taking place in Paris, and the tower still stands. In fact, it is right on the grounds. It was named in honor of Gustave Eiffel, the engineer who had charge of setting it up.

Paris is not only the capital city of France—it is also the largest city in the country. It ranks among the large cities of the world. It is smaller than London, New York, Tokyo or Berlin, but contains more people than Rome, Vienna or Shanghai.

Where Flames, Smoke Trapped Woman, Grandson

AUGUSTA, Nov. 22.—(P)—J. C. Walker, former teller of the Georgia Railroad Bank and Trust Company, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment today on pleas of guilty to violation of the national banking act. Sentence was passed by Federal Judge W. H. Barrett.

Walker admitted six accusations of false entries. He denied a charge that he defrauded the bank, and on trial of these counts, the jury disagreed Saturday.

Annual Tech-Georgia Game Saturday Is Absolute Sell-Out

Your Dollar for a Ticket Thursday Will Aid a Worthy Causel

The other day I read a statement by the late George Adair. An old friend of his recalled him saying: "We Masons have been building temples of marble and stone. Now we are going to build new ones by rebuilding the bodies of crippled children."

From that came the Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children. The beginning was modest. There was a small building. There is nothing of stentation about it now. The building has grown. It is a low, rambling building into which much sun comes.

You may hear there, how one day the floors needed sandpapering and cleaning. There was no money. So, down on their knees went the nurses and the superintendent and they sandpapered and shellacked those floors. You may go there and see the spotless, shining kitchen. And there Annie Kate presides with her staff. They will tell you they don't know how so many fine meals come from it. You may see the pride of the kitchen, the big refrigerator. There wasn't any way to get one. But, it's there. Things happen like that. All through those terrible years of the depression, things happened. Food would arrive. Donations came in just when donations had to come in. There is something about the place—a healing feeling in the air so that one cannot help believe and feel and know, that here is a work which is receiving some special blessing, some great and mighty benediction.

For this hospital, where children whose parents cannot pay for treatment, may bring their crippled ones, there was conceived the idea of the football game—the freshman game between the teams of Georgia and of Georgia Tech.

THE GAME THURSDAY.

That game will be played Thursday. There they come—the mothers and fathers, clutching in their arms some child whose coming was awaited with hope and ambition—and whose coming was marked with the agony of sorrow at the sight of a crippled leg, twisted feet or a back that was not strong.

They come to the hospital. There is something about the sight of them there that makes one feel a great surge of desire to do something so that no child will have to go through life crippled and deprived of feet that will walk and legs that will run.

The slogan for the game has been, "Strong legs will run that weak legs may walk."

I remember once being there when a pair of feet were having their first shoes fitted. The child was five years old. Club feet had been operated upon and made normal. The child sat there, looking with fascinated eyes at a pair of shoes being fitted on his feet—he couldn't really believe it.

They put him down at last, between two parallel bars. He put one foot forward and then a step, holding on with hands which gripped so tightly his knuckles showed white.

"How does it feel?" asked the nurse.

He turned up a face which still was awed by the mighty accomplishment of walking. "It feels good to walk," he said simply.

A gentleman wrote in after that and said: "When I hear my own boys running on the steps and when I see their own scuffed shoes, I know that God was good to me and mine and I want never to fail to have some tickets bought to that game."

A UNIQUE GAME.

Every cent of the money goes to the hospital. No one charges for his services. The ushers work free. There are no passes. Every dollar is translated into new feet and legs and into straight backs and into food and surgeon's knives and bandages.

The children look forward to the game. Some of them see it every year, watching the running legs and dreaming of the days when they, too, may run and play. The game is worth while all by itself. It requires no charity angle. It stands by itself as a real football game, featuring two freshman teams on which are the stars who will make the headlines at Tech and Georgia for the next three years.

It is, so to speak, their coming of age. They play real football and they produce more thrills than many varsity games. They play football for keeps. They are worth seeing—strong legs running that weak legs may walk.

THE SATURDAY GAME.

The freshman game is on Thursday and at least 12,000 people are expected to see it. And then, on Saturday, comes the Tech-Georgia game, with the varsities in action.

The game is a sell-out—with no seats left to buy. There will be no ticket offices open at Grant field for the simple reason there is no ticket left to sell. Temporary seats circle the field. They, too, are sold.

The game, with Georgia coming back strong against Auburn, is to draw the greatest crowd in a decade. There will be 26,000—perhaps 30,000—people there for the game. Already the tension grows.

See the Thursday game by all means—contribute one or two of your dollars to the boys who want to run and play. And, if you have a ticket—go Saturday.

Battle Array Of Tech Boys Is Shown Here

STANDING ROOM WON'T BE SOLD, IT'S ANNOUNCED

Lackey Back in Hospital for Observation; Nixon Hurt.

By JACK TROY.

The Tech-Georgia game Saturday at Grant field is an absolute sell-out, it was announced yesterday by Charley Griffin, who is in charge of tickets.

"There isn't a ticket available," he said, "and standing room will not be sold. A capacity crowd of 28,000 will view the annual game."

So that's the lowdown. The game's a sell-out a week ahead of time.

The Tech boys resumed work under wraps, so to speak. A light drill was ordered by Coach W. A. Alexander because of the rather crippled condition of the squad.

SIMS NURSES INJURED LEG. Captain Fletcher Sims has an injured leg and may be held out of all rough work this week. Sims suffered the injury against Florida.

Jack Nixon, guard, has a bruised hip and will be withheld from all scrimmage. Coach Alex said.

Eston Lackey, tackle, who was unable to play against Florida, was sent back to the hospital yesterday for treatment of his infected leg. Lackey was on crutches at the Florida game and the coaches will not know until today if he will be able to play part-time against Georgia.

Tech has been hit hardest in the line. Glenn Cushing remains on the doubtful list with an ankle injury. He hasn't played since the Vandy game in which he saw a little action.

COLLINS HANDICAPPED. There is some question about Red Collins' chances of playing. Collins, a blocking back, suffered severe rib injuries earlier in the season and is now handicapped by a hurt shoulder.

This is the sum and total of Jacket injuries. Otherwise, the squad is in good shape.

Rough work may be held to a minimum for the varsity players in order to avoid further injuries. There will be scrimmage plenty for reserves.

Coach Roy McArthur went to work with the Bee team yesterday in setting up a working plan of Georgia's offense. The varsity players will view it in slow motion and may be pressed into one defensive scrimmage during the week.

PAGE WILL PLAY. A most encouraging factor for Tech is that Junior Page will be able to see action on Saturday. An injured thumb forced him to watch the Tech-Florida game from the bench.

Improvement of former reserves also is encouraging. Howard Ector has fitted admirably into the backfield as a blocking back. Billy Gibson has shown much promise as a quarterback.

Georgia To Spend Week Improving Pass Defense

Usual Monday Lecture Followed by Light Workout; Maffett, Tinsley Miss Drill.

ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 22.—Recognizing Tech as the south's foremost passing unit, the Georgia Bulldogs will spend most of the week drilling on pass defense.

The Bulldogs' poorest play on pass defense came in the Tennessee game when the Vols completed seven for 145 yards.

Four of these meant touchdowns.

Tightening down, Coach Harry Mehre's outfit has held Florida, Tulane and Auburn to a total of 110 yards or 12 completions out of 28 tries. The Plainsmen tried 13 and completed three for a total gain of 25 yards.

Development of the sophomores in this line—particularly of Jimmy Fordham and Oliver Humnicutt, is a real key to the Bulldog success. Jim Cavan and Captain Bill Hartman have been outstanding all season in knocking down opponents' passes.

The usual Monday lecture was the chief event on this afternoon's program. A light workout was held immediately after the session. The squad was jubilant over the 0-0 tie with Auburn.

Otis Maffett and Pete Tinsley missed the drills. Maffett has a bruised hip which may hinder him, and Tinsley is suffering from sinus trouble.

A light week is billed as Coach Mehre seeks to whip the boys into tip-top shape.

SMITHIES LEAVE FOR PORTSMOUTH

Tech High's city and state championship team will leave the city tonight at 6 o'clock for Portsmouth, Va., where on Thursday afternoon the Smithies close their 1937 season with the Wilson High eleven.

Tech High has won ten straight games, for its best record in recent years. The Smithies have scored 249 points against only 25 for the combined opposition. Only Richmond Academy, Columbia and Jordan High have scored against the Smithies this season.

Coaches Tolbert and Scarborough will take 25 or 26 players on the trip tonight, and will work out lightly Wednesday afternoon on the Portsmouth field.

Tech High won its first championship since the 1933 season and a defeat Thursday will in no way effect the two championships won Friday night when Boys' High was beaten 7 to 0 at Ponce de Leon park.

The Smithies also won a leg on the Dartmouth trophy, which was placed in competition last year, after Boys' High had won a previous cup with three championship teams.

Lanier High, the 1936 state champions, also have a leg on the new cup which must be won three times for permanent possession.

While the Smithies are en route to Virginia, Commercial and Decatur High will complete preparations for their all important N. G. I. C. game Thursday morning at Decatur. The two are co-holders of the 1936 championship, but Decatur was eliminated from the 1937 prospects by losing to Griffin High last week.

Only Commercial, Griffin and Spalding High remain in the race for N. G. I. C. honors and a Commercial victory Thursday will leave a three-way tie. A Decatur victory will leave only the two Griffin teams in the race.

'Frank Frisch Is a Louse,' Dizzy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 22. (UP)—Dizzy Dean, the St. Louis Cardinals' loquacious pitcher and baseball's pop-off champion, today called Manager Frankie Frisch "a louse."

Dean, who came here from Bradenton where he runs a filling station, to play some golf, blamed the Cardinal manager for his poor pitching records last season and said Frisch, in his estimation, was "a louse." According to Dean, Frisch hampered him by being "continually on my neck."

Dean said, however, he had patched up his differences with Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey, heads of the Cardinals' front office. He referred to the heated verbal squabbles with them last spring over signing a contract.

He said his big left toe which troubled him last year still was a little stiff, but he did not think it would affect his pitching next season. He promised he would "really go to town." He won only 13 games and lost 10 last season.

Diz also took the occasion to rap the all-star game, contested each season between picked teams from the American and National leagues. He said "it certainly takes a terrific sock" at the World Series gate receipts.

Cripples Real Winners Of Freshman Contest

Thanksgiving Game, Itself, Is Typical Tech-Georgia Affair, Rated Tossup.

Atlanta's "heart interest" in football will be at Grant field on Thanksgiving Day.

The annual Tech-Georgia freshman game, played each year for the benefit of the crippled children of the Scottish Rite hospital, is only four days' distant and ticket sales presage the largest crowd since the series was inaugurated four years ago.

It's always difficult to try to pick a winner. It's certain that the real winner is the cause for which the game stands. But as for picking a favorite—well, there's not much basis for doing so and even if there were, it would be a foolish undertaking.

The freshman classic follows much the same pattern as the varsity game between the schools. And is fully as unpredictable.

REAL BALL GAME. It's always a real ball game. Future stars of both schools go at it in hammer-and-tong fashion and supply the crowd with all the thrills imaginable.

The day is a great one for the freshmen, not only because of the cause for which they are proud to be playing, but also because of the fact that it's the one day of the year in which they really are the headline attraction.

Freshmen do not get much attention from anyone except their varsity brothers (in scrimmage) during most of the season. Thanksgiving Day, on the other hand, is their day—and they make the most of it.

Tech supporters are anxious to see the Baby Jackets in action so as to get a working idea of what to expect from the players as sophomores. Georgia supporters, of course, entertain the same general idea.

EXCELLENT BACKS. The word has been passed around that Tech has some neat backs in Hugh Cheek, Jim Cahill, Neal Cavette, Jack Hitt and Roy Goree. And some excellent linemen in Sprayberry and Burroughs, ends; Holley and Perkerson, tackles; Dyche and Hart, guards, and Sutton, center.

Tech supporters are anxious to see if they have been correctly informed. Georgia fans have been hearing a lot about their first-year men and will be there to see what they do have on the ball.

Coaches Norris Dean and Johnny Broadnax have announced their teams are in top shape for the battle. The kickoff will be at 2:30 Thursday afternoon.

The start is delayed so that

Engineer Harriers To Run Thursday

Georgia Tech's cross-country team, unbeaten in dual meets over a three-year stretch, will be put to the test on Thanksgiving Day morning.

The Engineer harriers will run against teams from Georgia, L. S. U., Auburn and Mississippi State. L. S. U. has a particularly strong team, Coach George Griffin, of Tech, said yesterday.

The race will start and end at Grant field and there is no admission charge. Starting time is 10:30.

CASEY WAS MOST EFFECTIVE IN '37, AVERAGES SHOW

Hugh Allows Southern League Teams Only 2.36 Runs Per Game.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Hugh Casey, who won 14 games and lost 13 for the sixth-place Birmingham Barons this year, headed the Southern association hurlers with an earned run average of 2.36, it was revealed today upon the release of official league statistics.

Casey worked 236 frames—the same number as did Johnny Humphries, of New Orleans, who was the only hurler to win 20 decisions—allowed 231 hits and 67 earned runs. Humphries' earned run average was 3.01.

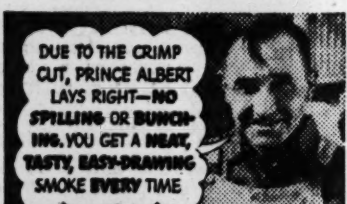

Bob Porter, of the pennant-winning Little Rock club, took second with an average of 2.65, and Eddie Jakucki, of the Pelicans, was third with 2.75.

Dick Midkiff, of the Pebs, finished next with 2.83, followed by Al Benton, of Memphis, with 2.84; Charles George, of the Barons, with 2.85, and Harris, of Atlanta, with 3.

Carl Doyle, Memphis Chick star, cornered the strike-out glory with an official total of 186 victims, six more than the string held by Humphries.

The record of Nashville's Ray "Iron Man" Starr showed that he worked in the most games—48—but that his teammate, Johnson, started 22—four more than he did.

TECH-GEORGIA TILT IS SELLOUT

Continued From First Sports Page. L. D. Crockett is improving as a running back. Junior Anderson, not long ago shifted from fullback to guard, has been able to offer valuable assistance in the line. He was used to good advantage in the Florida game.

Tech is, of course, counting on its pony guards to go as much of the route as possible. They are J. L. Brooks and Allen Wilcox. The Jackets are figured to have a more versatile offense, but are expected to face in Georgia one of the best defensive teams all year.

It should be a jam-up game. An unpredictable game. The odds, as far as anyone can reasonably see, are even at this writing.

JACKET - TROJAN TILT IN MAKING, DECLARES PAPER

Alex's Boys May Get That Trip to California, After All.

By THAD HOLT. Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets may get to make that California trip this year after all. According to an Associated Press dispatch early this morning, the Evening Tribune, of San Diego, Cal., says that negotiations are under way between University of Southern California and Tech for a Christmas day game, possibly at San Diego.

Georgia Tech and University of California were scheduled to play at Berkeley Christmas Day, but the game was cancelled under a previous agreement when the Golden Bears were chosen to represent the west in Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

It would be Tech's second appearance in the far west, the Jackets having conquered California in the Rose Bowl game of 1929.

Coach W. A. Alexander and officials at the Flats were not contacted for statements this morning, but it is believed Georgia Tech would be agreeable to a Southern California meeting. The Tech boys naturally are keenly disappointed at the automatic postponement of the California struggle.

Coach Alex's boys play their last scheduled game of the season with Georgia at Grant field Saturday, but would be overjoyed at the prospect of continuing practices for the battle with the Trojans of Howard Jones.

Tech-California Is Definitely Off.

California's nomination as the west coast's representative in the Rose Bowl automatically cancelled Tech's post-season game with the Golden Bears at Berkeley.

There was a clause in the contract to the effect that if either team received the bid the game for this year would be cancelled. California owes Tech a game, however, and it will be played whenever officials of the two schools agree upon the year.

Coach W. A. Alexander has said it is his belief Tech and California will meet in 1938, since Tech already has scheduled Notre Dame for the second game of the season.

NLRB WINS REVIEW IN BUS LABOR ROW

New Challenge of Black's Right To Sit on Bench Is Denied.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Labor Relations Board won a supreme court review today in its effort to enforce an order directing the Pacific Greyhound Lines, Inc., to withdraw all recognition from a labor organization it was alleged to have formed and dominated.

The justices denied a motion of Robert Gray Taylor, of Media, Pa., for permission to file a brief questioning the right of Justice Hugo L. Black to sit on the bench.

It was the second time Taylor had asked the tribunal to consider his petition. The first motion was denied last week. Taylor, who described himself as chairman of the Philadelphia court plan committee, said the court should decide whether Black "prejudged" himself in taking a judicial oath "in certain material respects diametrically opposed to his prior irrevocable oath to the Ku Klux Klan." He also wanted the court to say whether there had been "duress" in the senate's confirmation of Black last August.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company issued a Thanksgiving proclamation today, calling attention to the fact that during the past year the company "has employed more persons and paid higher wages than ever before."

The company statement, posted on bulletin boards in all of the 22 Westinghouse plants and mailed to stockholders, cited that "more taxes were paid toward the support of our government than ever before."

U. S. ENVOY JOHNSON IS SENT TO HANKOW

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The State Department announced tonight that American Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson would leave Nanking tomorrow to follow the Chinese government ministry of foreign affairs, which is being set up in a temporary capital at Hankow.

The embassy at Nanking will continue to function under Second Secretaries George Atcheson Jr., of Hackensack, N. J., and J. Hall Paxton, of Danville, Va., and Clerk Emile P. Gassie Jr., of New Orleans.

Thomas To Speak At Zuppke Dinner

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Frank Thomas, head football coach at the University of Alabama, has been selected to speak for the country's coaches at the silver anniversary banquet for Bob Zuppke, veteran University of Illinois coach.

The banquet will be held December 2 at Chicago and Thomas will go there after the Alabama - Vanderbilt game at Nashville Thursday, remaining for the Notre Dame - Southern California game. Alabama will play Southern California next year in Los Angeles.

WARREN PLAYS FULTON BAG FIVE

Warren's Southern amateur basketball team will open a 40-game schedule at 8 o'clock tonight on the Fulton High court with Fulton Bag as opponents.

Tonight's game will be free to the public.

Coach Joe Bean, who led the Marist College and Atlanta Athletic teams for more than 20 years is coaching Warren and will be in charge of the team tonight.

Hugh Luby and Almon Williams, former Cracker players, have been added to Warren's team. Luby will team with Joel Tierce, Cracker rookie at the guard positions. Williams will play center.

Vernon Moore Jr. and Ed Cope-land will most likely open at forwards.

Other members of the team include Cherry Foster, Lamar Bloodworth and Gene Warlick.

Following tonight's game, Warren will play on the road until the completion of its new indoor arena.

In a preliminary to the Warren-Fulton Bag game, the Warren Reds will play the Canton High five. The preliminary will start at 7 o'clock.

GIRL, 19, ADMITS KILLING CHILD, 5

Philadelphia Student Quoted as Saying They Quarrelled Over Cherries.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Mary K. O'Connor, 19-year-old physical education student, was arraigned late today before Mayor S. Davis Wilson and held without bail on a charge of homicide in the slaying last Labor Day of Nancy Glenn, 5.

A statement in which Detective Captain John Murphy asserted the girl said she killed Nancy because of her teasing was made a part of the stenographic record at the hearing.

He quoted Miss O'Connor as saying she got angry and struck Nancy on the chin after they quarrelled over eating cherries they found along a road near their home.

Her father, Robert, is a high school teacher. Nancy's body was found lying in a mud puddle only a few blocks from her home.

Her parents refused to accept a coroner jury's finding that Nancy was killed accidentally in a fall from a cherry tree. Three weeks ago they asked Mayor Wilson to reopen the investigation of her death.

Accused Man's Brother To Aid Tragedy Child

CLEVELAND, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Dr. Herbert B. Wright, Cleveland surgeon, announced today he was providing a home for 3-year-old Helen Wright, whose father faces a California trial on charges of killing her mother and a family friend, John B. Kimmel.

Dr. Wright, brother of the accused man, Paul A. Wright, opened informal conversations with Judge Nelson Brewer, of probate court here, looking to possible adoption of the child. His attorney, Lloyd D. Hunter, said Paul Wright had sent Helen to his brother because her welfare was "uppermost in his mind" and "to remove her in so far as possible from the after-effects of this tragedy."

J. MAYES KEMP, 37, DIES IN HOSPITAL

Was Clerk in United States Forestry Service.

J. Mayes Kemp, 37, clerk in the United States forestry service, died yesterday morning in a private hospital after an illness of one week. He lived at 139 King's Highway, Decatur.

Service will be conducted at 11 o'clock this morning in the Marietta Camp Ground Methodist church, with the Rev. J. W. McKibben officiating. Burial will be in the churchyard.

Mr. Kemp was a member of the First Methodist church of Decatur and the Decatur Elks' Club. He was a graduate of the Atlanta Law School.

Commodores Have Bowl Fever

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 22.—(AP)—A long scrimmage on offensive aerials consumed today's practice as Vanderbilt's Commodores resumed drill for the all-important Thanksgiving game with Alabama.

As the players drilled for the annual classic, talk was free on downtown streets regarding the chances of the team getting the Rose Bowl bid in case Alabama is defeated Thursday.

Many believe Vanderbilt would be invited to play California if they could hurdle the Tide.

Meanwhile, Business Manager Bill Schwartz's staff were kept busy returning money sent in for tickets. All tickets are gone and standing room will not be sold. Schwartz advised those not having tickets to remain away from the field because an increased patrol of police officers has been engaged to watch for intruders.

Alabama Team Drills Lightly.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Alabama coaches prescribed "light work" for the Crimson Tide today, hoping for considerable improvement over Saturday's scrimmage, the final one before the game with Vanderbilt Thanksgiving.

Coach Frank Thomas said nothing strenuous was ordered for the team, as every effort is being made to work the squad in prime condition.

The squad will sleep in Pullmans here Tuesday night, leaving early Wednesday for Knoxville. The final workout before the Southeastern conference championship game will be at Dudley field.

Bierman Is Named To Coach East

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Coach's Bernie Bierman, of Minnesota, and formerly of Tulane, has been named one of the east coaches for the annual East-West all-star charity football game here New Year's Day. Managing Director William M. Coffman said today.

Colgate's Andy Kerr will be the other coach. Bierman replaced Dick Hanley, former Northwestern coach who was associated with Kerr many years in handling the East team.

MONROE AGGIES FACE RIVERSIDE

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Nov. 22.—Center of interest in the prep grid world, despite Riverside's loss last Friday to the University of Florida freshmen, will be the renewal here Thursday between Riverside's Blue Battalion and Coach "Red" Barron's Monroe Aggies.

The annual Turkey Day go-between these schools can always be figured as a great battle and this year the encounter can be counted on to produce an outstanding conflict. Coach "Red" Sanders' Riverside has a great record and have topped six topflight prep, college freshman and "B" teams, losing in their attempt at their nineteenth consecutive victory to the Baby Gators who are rated as the south's outstanding freshman eleven.

At Riverside the outlook is definitely bearish in view of injuries resulting from the Florida fray. All-G. L. A. A. end and Captain Tommy Prothro is definitely through for the season with a fractured jaw, while Fullback Allen Harvey is also out with injuries.

VANDENBERG VOICES 'OPPOSITION' PLAN TO HELP BUSINESS

Republican Senator Challenges Administration With 10-Point Program.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, challenged the Roosevelt administration tonight with a ten-point "opposition" program designed to "give honest business a chance to create stable prosperity."

The Republican senator, who has been mentioned as a 1940 presidential prospect, presented his program in a nation-wide radio address in the Washington Star radio forum.

At the beginning of his speech,

Vandenberg said he was ready to "forward with any party—old, new, or fused—which promises liberalism with sanity, social-mindedness without socialism and a restoration of 'equitable economic fundamentals.'"

He outlined his ten points as follows:

1. An end to governmental "hymns of hate" and bitter attacks on business which have created a "jittery state of mind" among businessmen.

2. Progress as rapidly as possible toward a balanced budget.
3. Amendment, or repeal, of the surplus and capital gains taxes and substitution of "incentive taxation" for "punitive taxation."
4. Amendment of the social security act to eliminate the "needless drain upon the resources of commerce and labor."

5. Revision of the Wagner labor law to make for greater certainty in "long-range industrial planning."
6. Abandonment of the wage-hour bill and substitution of legislation to protect states from the

Prison Guards Hunt Escaped Convict, 22

Fulton prison guards and county police searched the wooded areas of the county last night for the fugitive Grady Burdett, 22, who with three other white convicts jumped from a Ben Hill camp truck on the old Campbellton road yesterday.

Bloodhounds tracked three escapes to some near-by woods where they were captured. Their names were not revealed.

Burdett had served five months of a 12-month auto theft term. Police said he previously had served other terms.

Importation of goods produced by substandard labor.

Repeal Powers.

7. Repeal of many of the President's emergency powers in order to free business from "executive despotism which is at war with every tenet of the American system."
8. Reasonable and practical farm relief, without bureaucratic controls, processing taxes, or price pegging, but with benefits for soil conservation practices, financing of exportable surpluses, and return of the domestic market to the domestic producer.

9. Foreign policies that will keep America out of war through pursuing "an insulating neutrality" rather than sanctions.
10. "Frank abandonment of all anticonstitutional activities and intrigues which shatter democratic faith."

FRENCH PRETENDER WILL 'RECONQUER'

Proclaims Decision To Re-create Throne as Police Press Arms Hunt.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—(AP)—The exiled Duke of Guise today proclaimed his decision "to reconquer" the non-existent French throne as police pressed their search for leaders of a secret revolutionary committee.

A spokesman for the Surete Nationale said that until now the investigation into the movement to overthrow the government had shown no connection between Royalists and "the National Committee of the Revolution."

All surete agents in Paris and large forces in the provinces were working on the investigation of the Rightist plot, in which raids already had uncovered enough arms and ammunition to equip a small army.

The manifesto issued by the 63-year-old pretender who seeks to rule France left no doubt he planned a pacific conquest. A spokesman insisted use of the word "reconquer" did not mean military action. French Royalists were believed to number less than 50,000.

PAY BILL ASSAILED BY WILLIAM GREEN

Labor Head Demands Measure Be Rewritten or New Plan Substituted.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, assailed the administration's wage-hour bill today and demanded that it be rewritten by the house labor committee or another measure substituted.

In a letter to Chairman Norton, Democrat, New Jersey, of the house committee, Green attacked a provision which would set up an independent board to administer the measure.

He said the federation insists "that it is no longer safe to permit a government board of that kind to make the many determinations necessary in the administration of the fair labor standards bill as now written."

He added that his organization believes the bill "should be amended by incorporation of provisions therein for a shorter work day and a shorter work week."

"The American Federation of Labor," he wrote, "can no longer endorse the draft of the fair labor standards bill now before the rules committee."

Well Digger, at 87, Still Wants a Job

SPARTA, Nov. 22.—Age means little to Abe Thrasher, former Sparta well-digger. At 87, he wants work.

Thrasher was believed to be one of the oldest persons who signed and returned questionnaires during the federal unemployment census last week. Despite his age, he stated he wants light work, and wants to continue working until his death.

Until recently, Thrasher held a place on the WPA rolls, but when his age was discovered he was retired from ditch-digging, at which he was employed at the time.

4th Corps Soldiers Get Turkey Thursday

Uncle Sam's fourth corps area fighting forces and lads in the Civilian Conservation Corps will eat turkey on Thanksgiving Day. The quartermaster for the fourth corps area announced yesterday that arrangements have been made to purchase 11,750 turkeys weighing from 6 to 21 pounds each for Thanksgiving dinners at the area's army posts and CCC camps.

Instead of the usual daily allowance of 50 cents per man, the company mess sergeant, whose duty it is to provide three well-rounded and balanced meals per day, will have 56 cents on Thanksgiving and Christmas. The additional allowance was provided for by congress.

GRANGE OUTLINES FARM PLATFORM

Grower Entitled to Fair Share of Nation's Income, Says Association.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 22.—(AP)—A 1938 "platform for agriculture" was announced today by the National Grange.

The platform, based on conclusions of the recent convention in Pennsylvania's capital, says in its preamble that the Grange recognizes such groups as cotton, dairy, wheat and tobacco growers have certain problems which need specific action.

The platform asserts that "the American farmer is entitled to equality of opportunity and to a fair share of the national income."

"There must be no legislation enacted which would result in either immediate or eventual regimentation of the American farmer."

"The American market should be restored to the American farmer to the limit of his ability to produce efficiently; there should be no curtailment of crop production that would place them at a disadvantage; and imports should be limited to those things which he can not supply."

The Grange urged continuation of soil conservation, and that co-operation should be fostered among farm organizations as a means of solving their problems.

BEAUTIES ARE CHOSEN IN 2 GEORGIA CITIES

OSCAR STRAUSS TALKS TO GRIFFIN MERCHANTS

GRIFFIN, Ga., Nov. 22.—More than 100 Griffin merchants and their employees tonight heard an address by Oscar Strauss Jr., of Atlanta, who told them that "efficient clerks, who know their merchandise and who treat every customer with the utmost courtesy, are the greatest asset any store can have."

Mr. Strauss discussed with the merchants and their sales staffs various store problems and their solution. He stressed the fact that a store, to be successful in any community, "must be of genuine service to the community."

J. B. Mooney, chairman of the merchants' division of the Griffin Chamber of Commerce, presided.

BRITAIN HELD READY TO ACT IN SHANGHAI

Will Resist Infringement on Her Rights, High Authority Declares.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—(UP)—Britain is prepared to act alone to protect her rights in Shanghai if they are infringed upon by Japan, a high authority told the United Press tonight.

The British would prefer a program of joint action by the powers, including the United States, in event of a major dispute, but are determined to protect their own rights "rigorously," the informant said.

The statement followed a declaration by the Japanese spokesman in Shanghai who asserted that the Japanese armed forces, having conquered Shanghai, reserve the right to seize Chinese government agencies in the International Settlement and the French concession "if necessary."

The informant said that, in case of a major dispute, Britain first would enter into immediate diplomatic contact with the United States and other interested powers in an effort to form a joint front. If such a front could not be formed she then would act alone.

UTILITIES REFUSED ALL TVA RECORDS

Three-Judge Court Orders Available Only Portion of Data Demanded.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 22.—(AP)—Private utilities seeking to invalidate the Tennessee Valley Authority creative act were sustained today in only a portion of the mass of "inside" TVA they had sought through petition.

Authority counsel was ordered by the court to make available to attorneys of the 18 utilities the following material:

1. Minutes of TVA directors meeting on June 26, 1933, "in so far as it relates to the opposition of the board to the granting of further licenses in the Tennessee river basin."
2. Minutes of a directors' meeting of May 20, 1933, concerning the same subject.
3. Minutes of a directors' meeting of September 14, 1937, showing assignment of a contract with the Volunteer Portland Cement Company, of Knoxville.

4. A letter dated May 21, 1936, to the Federal Power Commission from the TVA. (Contents of the letter were not disclosed.)
5. Copy of a protest dated August 23, 1933, to the Federal Power Commission from "TVA Director Lillenthal objecting to the granting of a license to Southern Industries and Utilities, Inc."

The court refused requests for "communications, reports, etc., which have passed between the TVA and various government agencies."

TIPS ON FUGITIVES NET 2 MEN $6,000

Janitor Gets $4,000, Parking Attendant $2,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—(AP)—Alertness of two Syracuse, N. Y., residents in furnishing information to local police leading to the recapture there last week of three convicted kidnappers netted them $6,000 in federal rewards today.

Attorney General Cummings, who offered $2,000 reward each for information leading to the arrest of John Oley, Percy Geary and Harold Crowley, said in a statement today that $4,000 should be paid to Ivan Whiteford, janitor of a rooming house. Whiteford supplied Syracuse police with information last Wednesday which resulted in the capture of Oley and Crowley.

Cummings said the other $2,000 reward would be paid to Casper Mirra, 22-year-old parking lot attendant, whose tip Thursday enabled a policeman to capture Geary single-handed.
